SECURITY AIMS TOLD TO HOUSE

Washington, Jan. 21—President Roosevelt's $4,800,000,000 relief program was embodied in a joint resolution introduced in the House today by Chairman Buchanan of Texas of the Appropriations Committee.

By International News Service

Washington, Jan. 21—The Administration's old age pension-unemployment insurance bill is inseparably linked with the proposed $4,000,000,000 public works program, Edwin W. Witte, executive director of the President's committee on economic security, told the House ways and means committee today.

With his analysis of the economic security program, the committee began hearings on the Wagner-Lewis-Doughton bill.

The measure before the committee, he explained, embraced old age pensions, unemployment insurance, aid to dependent children and mothers, and extension of public health service. Dr. Witte said:

"This bill represents an important part, but not the whole of the administration's program for economic security for the individual and for the family."

For Decent Homes

Dr. Witte explained the President's full program included decent homes, development of natural resources and safeguards against the "major misfortunes of life. He said:

"This economic security bill is concerned with the third of these aspects of security—safeguard against misfortune which cannot be wholly eliminated in this man-made world of ours."

CURLEY PICKS McKENNEY

The name of Joe McKenney, football coach and professor of ancient and modern history at Boston College, will be submitted to the Governor's Council on Wednesday as a member of the finance commission, Governor Curley announced today.

Governor Curley and the football mentor have been close friends for years. McKenney will replace Charles M. Storey, recently ousted.

McKenney was appointed a professor at Boston College two years ago. He is the third person to be offered the post.

Neal J. Holland and Edward D. Hassen declined the appointment.

The governor said:

"I don't know of anything that anybody can have against Joe McKenney. Ithink it is well for a member of the finance commission to know a little about ancient history."

MOONEY CASE REVIEW TURNED DOWN

By Associated Press

Washington, Jan. 21—Thomas J. Mooney must remain in San Quentin penitentiary.

His latest effort to escape serving the remainder of his life for complicity in the 1916 San Francisco Preparedness Day parade bombing failed today when the Supreme Court refused to review the case.

The 51-year-old convict, who has waged an 18-year campaign for freedom, asked the court to permit him to file habeas corpus proceedings, thus compelling California to defend its action in keeping him imprisoned.

Revolt on League Court Increases in Senate

By International News Service

Washington, Jan. 21—The linking of the permanent (World) Court of International Justice to the League of Nations both by its friends and foes today served to increase the Senate revolt within Administration ranks against American adherence to the Geneva tribunal.

With Senators Reynolds (D.) of North Carolina, and Russell (D) of Georgia, asserted the court is an "instrument of the league," a dozen other Democrats were reported ready to join the bolt.

Senator Johnson (R.) of California called attention, first to the fact that the court had been created by the league. He showed by reference to the protocols, now pending before the Senate for ratification, that only members of the League of Nations or states could appear before the court on any matter.

In addition, he pointed out, the third protocol—touching solely on the American reservations adopted by the Senate in voting adherence in 1926—had been prepared by a committee of jurists, named by the league, and ratified by a conference of signatories, called by the league in 1929.

Johnson further charged:

Judges of the court are elected by the council and assembly of the League of Nations, and are paid through the League.

Council of League given right to admit non-members of League to Court.

If United States joins court, it will be only member of Court not a member of League.

Link Clark in Sale of Death Guns

By ARTHUR J. QUINN
Boston Evening American Staff Correspondent

New York, Jan. 21—Nelson B. Clark, once "Bull Moose" candidate for governor in Massachusetts and now an alleged "Fagin," was identified today in West Side court as the purchaser of two guns police say were used in the slaying of Patrolman James Killion.

The policeman was shot in the holdup of a Fifth avenue leather goods store Friday and four youths are held charged with the slaying. Clark, it is alleged, lived with them, and disposed of holdup loot.

Identification of Clark as the gun purchaser was made by a clerk in a New York sporting goods store, after Clark had been arraigned as a receiver of stolen goods and held without bail until Wednesday.

"He's the man who bought those guns," the clerk told police. "He said he was going to take them to Oklahoma."

Clark denied the identification. He said:

"Angelini (Amerigo Angelini, 22, of New York, one of the four held for murder) bought the guns. I went with him and he told me his father had asked him to buy them.

'I'M NOT AFRAID,' SAYS HAUPTMANN In Interview

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN
International News Service Special Correspondent

Flemington, N. J., Jan. 21—Hauptmann is unafraid. He expects acquittal. He thinks the state has failed to prove he kidnaped the Lindbergh baby. He feels now, with the end of the prosecution's case in sight, that victory is his.

"I am anxious to take the stand. I have listened to a lot of lies in that courtroom; now I would like to do my own talking and tell what is really the truth," Hauptmann declared today in an interview through his counsel, C. Lloyd Fisher.

"I want a chance to say I didn't kill that baby."

"Do you think the jury will believe you?" he was asked.

"Yes."

"Are you worried about facing cross-examination?"

"Not a bit," Hauptmann replied in his strange, thin, guttural voice. I have been waiting a long time to tell my story. They can ask me anything, and I will tell the truth. I am not afraid."

"How do you feel?"

"I feel all right. I will feel better when I have testified," Hauptmann replied.

Explains It as "Repeat" Money

He sat in his cell in Flemington jail—the steel-barred cubicle that has been transformed into an office, with a small table covered with papers and photostats.

Hauptmann pored over the piles of papers—they are deposit slips and bank records and photostatic copies of brokerage accounts. He shuffled through them with lean, spatulate hands.

"They are going to try to prove that money was ransom money," he was told. "How are you going to explain that?" he was asked.

Hauptmann pointed to the papers.

"I will explain it with these. I am going over them in my mind. I will tell how this is 'repeat' money. It was used over

By Associated Press

Flemington, N. J., Jan. 21—Defense counsel moved for mistrial today for Bruno Richard Hauptmann.; Justice Trenchard denied the motion, treating it casually.

The motion came after Attorney General David T. Wilentz had referred to a purchase of aviation stock by Hauptmann.

(Copyright, 1935, by the Associated Press)

Flemington, N. J., Jan. 21—A government accountant testified today that Mr. and Mrs. Bruno Richard Hauptmann's assets swelled $44,486 after the futile $50,000 ransom was paid for baby Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr.

The state, which accuses Hauptmann of kidnaping and murdering the Lindbergh baby, also brought to a driveway near the court, ready to show to the jury if the court permits, the automobile in which Hauptmann was alleged to have been seen near the Lindbergh home on the day of the kidnaping, March 1, 1932.

One witness has testified he saw a ladder in the automobile.

The state also announced itself ready to refute any further attempt on the part of the defense to implicate the dead German furrier, Isador Fisch, in the kidnaping and murder or collection of the ransom.

A New York attorney, Albert D. Kurtz, the prosecutors said, has a diary showing that he and Fisch were together the day of the kidnaping.

Hauptmann claimed on his arrest that $14,600 ransom money found in his garage had been given to him by Fisch for safekeeping.

A defense announcement on the same point was to the effect it had information Fisch used the name of "John" when he went back to Germany to die of tuberculosis.

A woman giving this information, Mrs. Curt Schwarz, a Bronx housewife, has not promised to testify, however.

Mrs. Schwarz was quoted by a defense investigator as saying Fisch also wrote she and her husband signing his name as "John."

The man to whom the ransom money was turned over in St. Raymond's cemetery, the Bronx, by Dr John F. (Jafsie) Condon called himself "John." Dr. Condon has sworn this was Hauptmann.

A puzzling development of the day was a report to police by a youth named Robert Grant, 18, in Hastings-on-Hudson, N. Y., that he had been kidnaped by two men who threatened to hold him as a hostage to prevent testimony for the defense by a man named Manly. Grant told the police he had furnished Manly's name to the defense.

The figure on Hauptmann assets given to the jury by William E. Frank, treasury agent, included the $14,600 found in his garage and $120 in gold coins found in his home in the Bronx.

Justice Thomas W. Trenchard surprised the attorneys by ordering the court reporter to repeat the amount of the assets, $44,486, noting it, and remarking:

"This may be of great importance to me."

Defense Bares Margin Deals

Frank's testimony that three brokerage accounts of the Hauptmanns jumped to stocks purchases of $256,442.15 in 1933, caused the defense to bring out on cross-examination a lesson in margin dealings.

Frank testified Hauptmann began to deal on margin in 1930, and the defense elicited from him acknowledgment that the books of a stock margin account would not show the money actually put in, that is, that it would not show the amount of the purchasers' equity in the account.

Attorney General David T. Wilentz brought out from Frank testimony that the $55,486 was exclusive of any cash loans made by Hauptmann.

$203.90 in Bank on "Ransom Day"

Justice Trenchard ascended the bench at 10:05 a. m. today and court was immediately called to order.

The State placed Frank on the stand as the first witness to give detailed accounting of the Hauptmann finances before and after the payment of the ransom.

Q—How much moneys were there to his credit, her credit, or both on April 2, 1932? A—In the Central Savings Bank there was $203.90.

Wilentz asked if the Hauptmanns had stock market holdings at the time.

"Yes."

$16,942 Put in Broker's Account

Frederick A. Pope for the defense, arose, objecting to the line of Frank's testimony as irrelevant and immaterial to the case. He was overruled.

Frank said market holdings of Hauptmann on April 2, 1932, consisted of 50 shares of Warner Brothers stock. The market value on that day was $100.

"It was selling for $2 a share, on that day," Frank added.

Q—So that on April 2 the total cash and stock assets of the Hauptmanns was $203.90 in a bank, and $100 in stock? A—Yes.

Q—Will you tell us how much cash was put into the brokerage accounts by the Hauptmanns from April 2, 1932, to Sept. 19, 1934, the day of Hauptmann's arrest? A—From April 2, 1932, to Sept. 19, 1934, the total deposits in all the brokerage accounts of the defendant and his wife was $16,942.75.

"The total amount of cash deposits in the bank accounts," Frank continued, "was $9,078.25."

Q—There were some withdrawals from those brokerage and bank accounts? A—There were other deposits, but they were transfers and I have eliminated those. There were some cash withdrawals and I was unable to trace the disposition of them.

Q—Have you inspected the brokerage accounts of the defendant and his wife? A—I have.

Q—Can you tell us whether there was a profit or loss in all the brokerage accounts up until April 2, 1932? A—There was a loss in that account.

Frank said the loss amounted to $3463.60.

Q—Give us the profits or loss in the Hauptmann accounts between April 2, 1932, and September 19, 1934. A—There was a loss of $5728.63. The total of these two losses was $9192.23.

Wilentz then requested Frank to total all the assets which came into the Hauptmanns' possession after April 2, 1932, the ransom payoff day.

The attorney general told the witness to include in the total the $14,600 ransom money found in the garage, the $120 in gold coins found in the Hauptmann house, and a $3750 mortgage the Hauptmanns had prior to the kidnaping.

Pope objected to the question as "hypothetical." If the question was confined to figures already in evidence, Pope said, he would remove his objection.

Wilentz said it was confined to "just that."

Frank said the total was $44,486.

Justice Trenchard showed great interest in the figures produced and requested the court stenographer to read the answer back to him. A pause ensued while he made a note of the tabulations, saying:

"This may be of great importance to me."

"That is exclusive of any cash loan, made by the defendant?" inquired the attorney general.

"Yes."

The state was apparently laying the groundwork for testimony on the $7500 loan the Bronx alien said he made to the late Isador Fisch, his business partner and who he said left the ransom money in his care.

List Purchases of Hauptmann

Frank said the total of Hauptmann's stock purchases in 1929 was $1,916; 1930, omitted; 1931, $2,836; 1932, $4,903.25.

In 1933 separate accounts were maintained, Frank added. In the Anna Schoeffel (Mrs. Hauptmann's maiden name) account that year, he asserted the total purchases were $256,442.15.

This account, in Hauptmann's wife's name, was carried, he said, with Steiner-Rouse & Co.

Three accounts were carried, the witness added, one by Hauptmann, one in his wife's maiden name and one in her married name.

Q—Was there any other account that year? A—There was a small commodity account. I haven't any figures for the total purchases in that.

Q—How about stock accounts? A—There was one account with $7985, and another smaller one with $3077.35, the purchase value of stocks sold.

Wilentz then turned Frank over to Reilly for cross-examination.

Reilly brought out from Frank that the defendant's wife had opened a bank account in October 27, 1924, in the Central Savings Bank, in New York.

Wife Deposited $1,000 Yearly

The witness said her annual deposits in the next five years varied between $1000 and $2000.

The account closed in 1928, Frank said.

Reilly asked the Treasury expert to total the bank deposits Mrs. Hauptmann made in the five years before the account was changed from her maiden name, Anna Schoeffler, to a joint account with her husband in January, 1928.

"$5,377.97," the witness replied.

$5377 Deposited Before Kidnaping

Frank testified that Anna Schoeffler opened a bank account on October, 1927. The following January 25, 1928, he added, she closed it on January 16, 1928.

The total deposits during that time the witness said, was $5377.97, made up as follows:

1925—$1126.38.
1927—$2186.59. Total, $5377.97.

Q—All these deposits were made before the date of the Lindbergh kidnaping? A—Yes.

Frank testified $3750 was drawn out of the Schoeffler account in October 27, 1924, in the Central ary the account was converted into a joint one in her name and that of her husband and it so continued until March, 1933.

The balance of the account, on January 16, 1928, was $411.16 and a joint Anne and Richard Hauptmann account was opened. In addition to the $411.16 there was deposited in 1928, $2126; 1929, $1586.35; 1930, $1417.00; 1931, $818.25; 1933, $3146.52.

Up to March 25, 1933, when the account closed out, $2710 had been deposited for that year.

Extensive Bank Transactions

Reilly tried to bring out that Hauptmann had extensive bank transactions prior to the Lindbergh kidnaping.

"You see here," Reilly said, pointing to a bank record, "where the defendant in 1929 made a withdrawal of $2800, don't you?"

"Yes," Frank replied.

Q—And here is a withdrawal in 1930 of $500, and another of $950, and deposits of $200 and $1186.. A—Yes.

Q—And here in 1931 is a withdrawal of $660? A—Yes.

Q—Followed by a deposit a month later? A—Yes.

This continued for several minutes, Reilly lingering over each and every bank deposit or withdrawal made by the Hauptmanns prior to April 2, 1932.

Frank admitted the total transactions of Mr. and Mrs. Hauptmann in one joint bank account, prior to the kidnaping, totaled $12,830.28.

When the Hauptmann account was joined—in 1928—there was $411.16 in Anna's name and $802.50 in Bruno's name. There was deposited in 1928—$2,125, making a total for the year $3,338.66.

Deposit Total Set at $12,830

Q—(By Reilly)—Tell me how much was deposited in the joint Hauptmann account at the Central Savings Bank from the time it was opened until it was closed in 1933. A—The total was $12,830.28.

Q—What happened in 1933 when the joint accounts was closed out? A—When the joint account was closed out on March 25, 1933, the balance of $3338.52 was placed in the account of Anne Schoeffler in the same bank—Central Savings Bank. In 1933 there was deposited $3515.50 in the Anna Schoeffler account, and that deposit was within $700 of the deposits prior to the kidnaping.

Q—How much was deposited in this account in 1934? A—There was a single deposit of $111.50.

Under further cross-examination by Reilly the agent admitted that Hauptmann had another bank account, before the kidnaping, which once had a balance of $2536.55.

Reilly stopped at times to puzzle over photostatic copies of the defendant's financial records.

Q—Then there was the Mount Vernon Trust Co. account. In whose name was that? A—Richard Hauptmann.

Q—When was that opened? A—June 1, 1932—two months after the ransom payment.

Q—And he opened that account with the large sum of $55. A—The sum of $55.

Reilly rattled off a list of small figures and asked if they were deposits.

"Yes," the witness said.

"And when the bank suspended 1933 his balance was $198.33, is that right?"

Only $260 in Manhattan Bank

Reilly turned to another bank, the Manhattan Savings Institution. He brought out that Hauptmann's total deposits there had amounted to only $260.

The witness consulted his records before answering questions. At one point Reilly suddenly said:

"Are you now through with bank accounts?"

"Are you?" Frank shot back.

Everybody laughed including Reilly.

Reilly then showed Hauptmann had closed out an account in the Bronx Borough Bank with a balance of $782 before the date of the kidnaping.

Q—So you can say Hauptmann and his wife transacted business at banks both before and after the kidnaping? A—Yes.

Q—And the deposits amounted to more than $3800 a year both before and after the kidnaping? A—The accounts were larger after the kidnaping.

Reilly then turned to the brokerage accounts. He brought out that as early as November 1, 1929, Hauptmann opened his first brokerage account.

"In Wall Street" in November, 1929

"So, two and one-half years before the kidnaping Hauptmann was in Wall Street?" asked Reilly.

"Yes, sir," replied the witness.

Referring to Hauptmann's stock transactions, Reilly at one point asked:

"And he paid $1066 for Super-Can?"

The spectators laughed, and a grin spread over Hauptmann's face.

Reilly went into Hauptmann's various brokerage transactions, including his cross-sales and purchases. The defense attorney had a sheaf of papers in his hand as he questioned the witness.

Hauptmann, it was disclosed had been dealing in various stocks, including Fox Film, National Cash Register and Fairbanks preferred, in May, 1930.

"Now," said Reilly, "these transactions were all prior to the kidnaping, weren't they? Now, let's see: Here on the date of April 30, 1930, we find he purchased 100 shares of Fairbanks preferred for $950. Isn't that so?"

"Yes, sir."

Bruno Traded "on Margin"

Reilly then attempted to show the large figure involved in Hauptmann's stock transactions gave a misleading impression of the amount of money actually used because of the fact that Hauptmann had traded on margin. The lawyer asked:

"The amount of stock bought on margin on the purchase side does not show the amount of money he put up, does it?"

The witness, Frank, straightened him out.

Reilly showed the jury the exhibit which had confused him.

A short recess was taken and when court reconvened Mrs. Elsie Whately, widow of Ollie Whately, the Lindbergh butler, was in the

'Wait in Rain'

By International News Service

Flemington, N. J., Jan. 21—Silent and fog failed today to dampen the ardor of the "fans" seeking admission to the trial of Bruno Richard Hauptmann.

Although every seat in the courtroom was taken once the doors were opened, a group of men and women stood back of a roped-off "dealine" in front of the courthouse and waited.

Some were huddled under umbrellas.

Frank went back to the stand. Reilly called his attention to the July, 1930, account where Hauptmann had purchased 100 shares of Indian Motorcycle stock.

"He owed the house $1587.87 on September 30, 1930, for this stock?" asked Reilly.

"Yes," said the witness.

Hauptmann, it was brought out, sold the stock in October of that year and took a loss of $962.66.

Referring to January, 1931, Frank said the condition of Hauptmann's account showed a credit balance of $913.73 at the end of the month. He had closed out the account and had only cash remaining.

Built Credit by Transfers

Reilly brought out that on Jan. 18, 1932, Hauptmann opened a brokerage account with Pierce and Company, depositing $2500. He bought 100 shares of National Distillers and stocks of a German manufacturing concern.

Hauptmann's account was subsequently transferred to Steiner, Rouse and Company after he had suffered losses of more than $700. He originally opened his Steiner, Rouse account on August 8, 1932.

Hauptmann, according to the witness, opened the account with Steiner, Rouse and Company by delivering 100 shares of Curtiss-Wright. He deposited no money at the time.

"At the end of August, 1932, he had a credit balance of $500 because he had withdrawn over $700 by check during the month," said Frank.

In September, Frank said, Hauptmann's trading brought him a profit of more than $200. His balance at the end of that month was $1004.50. The witness said Hauptmann was constantly trading back and forth in stocks at that time.

The next month Hauptmann's account grew to $2938. Of this sum $860 was deposited in cash by the defendant.

At the end of February, 1933, Hauptmann's account showed a debit balance of $1165.93. During the following month he put $850 cash in his account and cut down the debit.

In April, 1933, Hauptmann, according to the witness, had a credit balance of $1573.93, in addition to stocks.

Hauptmann, according to Frank, transferred his account to the name of Anna Schoeffler in April, 1933. This was his wife's maiden name. When he opened this account, Hauptmann specified he would have "power of attorney" over it. It was at this point that Hauptmann's trading became the heaviest.

When he opened the new account he deposited checks totaling $3,100 and $173 in cash, as well as several hundred shares of various stocks.

At the end of April, 1933, he had a credit balance of $281.50. His total holding of stocks, however, had swelled to $6,927.50 at that time.

Hauptmann was trading heavily in May, 1933, the witness said, reeling off various stocks the defendant bought and sold during that month, including Canadian Pacific, Anaconda Copper, American and Foreign Power, Electric Power and Light, Puritan Bakeries, and Radio.

These purchases were much larger than before. Hauptmann bought blocks of several hundred shares at a time.

Each of more than a dozen of these purchases involved more than $1,000. One transaction involved $7,325.

Frank showed that Hauptmann always sold soon after buying, sometimes making small profits. During May, 1933, he made a profit of $600 on one of his transactions, $491 on another, and $67 on another.

Frank said he left the profits in the account. The testimony showed Hauptmann traded cautiously at first, being content to make small, quick profits.

"He was an active trader," Frank said.

Kidnap Ladder Brought in Court

The kidnap ladder was carried into the courtroom as the afternoon session began, indicating the state would make a last attempt to have the ladder admitted as evidence.

Frank resumed the stand and Reilly continued his cross-examination. Reilly again took up Hauptmann's brokerage accounts of May 1933.

Reilly's first question was:

"On the 18th of May, 1933, Hauptmann sold about $2500 worth of stock and bought $2400 worth, correct?" "Yes," said Frank.

Q—He made a profit of $360.? A—Yes.

Q—And the next day he sold stock yielding a profit of $530? A—$558 profit.

On the day after that Hauptmann's stock transactions netted $73, Frank admitted. The witness said the defendant was leaving his profits in his account.

$31,357 Month's Profit on Stocks

Reilly continued to point out profitable stock transactions which the records showed the shrewd Bronx carpenter had made.

During the latter part of May, 1933, Hauptmann was buying and selling thousands of dollars' worth of stocks almost every day.

"What was the condition of Hauptmann's account at the end of May, 1933?" Reilly asked.

"He had a credit balance of $3,841.79," Frank replied.

Q—And his transactions had totaled $31,357 for the month. A—Yes.

Jury Hymn

By Associated Press

Flemington, N. J., Jan. 21—The Hauptmann jurors, restricted from attending public services, organized a religious service o. their own Sunday in their hotel quarters.

There was no minister, but one of their number led in prayer, and they sang hymns such as "Nearer My God to Thee."

They also went for a bus ride during the week-end recess, but otherwise their routine was the same—playing cards, visiting one another and taking the constitutionals recommended by the judge.

By International News Service.

New York, Jan. 21 — When Bruno Richard Hauptmann takes the stand he may testify in German.

Edward J. Reilly, chief defense counsel, said before leaving for Flemington today that it was entirely possible the Bronx carpenter would tell his story through an interpreter, if the court permits.

"If he testifies in German he will understand questions more readily and will give more intelligent answers," Reilly said.

2 DEAD IN MINE BLAST

50 OVERCOME

By Associated Press

Gilberton, Pa., Jan. 21—At least two miners were killed and more than 50 overcome by poison gas fumes today in an explosion in the Gilbertons colliery of the Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron Co.

More than 200 men were at work in the mine at the time, about 30 of them on the "sixth level," where the explosion occurred.

Nearly 100 men had been removed three hours after the blast. Of those overcome by "black damp," some were in a critical condition.

Rescuers said most of these were rescuers or miners working on the level above the spot where the blast let loose.

Semi-official reports coming to the surface said none of the men had been removed from the explosion-torn sixth level.

The two dead were identified as Roy Morgan and Richard Evans.

NRA VALIDITY Ruling Promised

Washington, Jan. 21 (AP)—A direct ruling on the constitutionality of the National Industrial Recovery Act was promised today by the supreme court.

It agreed to review a decision by Federal Judge W. I. Grubb of the northern Alabama federal court holding invalid both the Recovery Act and the code of fair competition for the timber and lumber products industry.

The case—against William E. Belcher, Alabama timber producer and manufacturer—was selected by the government to test its authority.

LIGHTS ASKED After 17 Die

Senator Joseph S. Sullivan of Worcester today asked the State Public Works Department to install a light system on the Worcester southwest highway.

He declared the failure of an adequate lighting system has been responsible for 17 fatalities during the past year.

'Red' Weds

By Associated Press

New York, Jan. 21—Henry "Red" Johnson, the man who talked to Betty Gow over the phone the night the Lindbergh baby was kidnaped, was married last week in Norway to his Norwegian sweetheart, Renge Olsen, it was learned today from Harry Wold, the girl's uncle.

Wold, superintendent of a Brooklyn apartment house, said the girl's mother, who has been visiting relatives in Brooklyn, received a cable Thursday announcing the marriage.

and over again. That happens in the stock market. It wasn't Lindbergh ransom money, you can bet on that!"

Blue Eyes Flash Angrily

His blinding blue eyes flashed angrily for a brief moment. Then he shrugged.

"I am not worried," he said.

"Don't you think the State proved a good case against you?"

"No; they did not prove anything so damaging, I don't think," he replied.

"What did they prove? That is only their side yet. Wait until I tell the truth. You know, there were a lot of lies told on their side."

"Whom do you mean?" he was asked.

"I mean Sisk, most of all. Then I mean Hochmuth. The old man who said he saw me in Hopewell, and he must be crazy. He is an old man, and I think he is just crazy. And that Miss Alexander, she was lying—or she was mistaken. Even Dr. Condon said she was mistaken. I don't say she lied on purpose —but she is wrong. She never saw me there."

His face flamed for a moment, his hands clenched white.

"But that Sisk—that man is the worst liar of all. He lied on purpose and he knew it. That is why I got so mad.

Calls Sisk "Vicious Liar"

"Sisk is a vicious liar. I think he told those stories because he wanted a reward or something like that. I can prove he told absolute lies, if they want to ask me about that.

"Let me tell you this: He said I was sneaking looks out the window when they were searching that bedroom in my house, and I was looking out at the garage. That is a lie because in that room where they had me there is no window facing out on the garage. If I look out a window of that room I cannot see the garage. There is only a plain blank wall in the direction of the garden and the garage. Sisk does not know what he is talking about. He is making up everything."

Hauptmann seemed more enraged by the testimony of young Thomas Sisk, the Department of Justice agent, than by any other single factor in the prosecution's case, although other testimony, on the face of it, appeared more damaging.

"Do you think you have a chance of being acquitted?" he wes asked.

"Sure," he replied, "a good chance."

Grateful to Faithful Wife

He spoke gratefully of his wife, Anna, who has never faltered in her devotion to him.

"Anna has been a good wife to me in all this," he said. "She has done everything she could and she tried to give me courage with her loyalty. She believes I am innocent. She is a fine woman."

He turned his back to his papers, a great sheaf of them ruffling like cards through his hands.

"No, I am not worried," he said. "I am not afraid."

CROCK--BOARD--STAINS--CHISEL TO BE PUT IN EVIDENCE

FLEMINGTON PUT ON PARADE BY ARTIST

Found in Bruno Home

STATE TO WIND UP CASE WITH CHEMISTS, ACCOUNTANTS

By LEIGH MATTESON
International News Service Science Writer

Flemington, N. J., Jan. 21—Such homely items as a crock, a length of board, muddy water stains, a wood chisel and some entries in account books figure hugely in the trial of Bruno Richard Hauptmann.

Through the presentation and discussion of these items of evidence, the state of New Jersey will stage a crescendo windup of its case against the alien carpenter who entered this country illegally more than ten years ago, while he was a fugitive from German justice.

Briefly, the state's evidence and the state's witnesses will be utilized as follows:

1—The big crock, such as is used in the kitchen of nearly every home, will be presented as the receptacle where the Lindbergh ransom money was hidden beneath the Hauptmann garage for months prior to the time the prisoner has asserted it dropped from a water-soaked shoe box left behind by his dead friend, Isidor Fisch.

2—Muddy water stains on the seized ransom bills will be cited as evidence of the above contention.

Federal Agent Thomas H. Sisk stated on Friday when he found the crock buried, with a lid on, under more than a foot of dirt beneath the Hauptmann garage floor, it contained about two inches of muddy water.

3—The length of board to be specially cited as evidence is now a part of the ladder used by the "lone" kidnaper-killer-ransom collector who climbed into the Lindbergh nursery on the fateful night of March 1, 1932. Wood experts will trace the ladder fragment directly to the attic of Hauptmann's home.

4—The wood chisel is the one found near the ladder, where it was abandoned about 70 feet from the nursery side of the Lindbergh home. Tool experts will assert that it is one of a series of different sized chisels, all of identical make, which were later found in Hauptmann's tool chest.

5—The account book entries to be placed in evidence are those relating to the financial condition of Mr. and Mrs. Hauptmann, before and after the Lindbergh ransom was paid on April 2, 1932. Accountants for the state will say that those entries show that about $51,596, went through the combined bank and brokerage accounts of the Hauptmanns.

DRISCOLL RITES Joined by Police

Funeral services for Inspector James J. Driscoll, 66, for 30 years a member of the Boston police department and who died Friday, were held today with a solemn high mass of requiem in St. Mary's Star of the Sea Church, East Boston.

Department officials, headed by Superintendent Martin W. King, attended the funeral. Accompanied by 40 uniformed patrolmen, the cortege left the Driscoll home, 78 Homer street, East Boston.

BLAMES NEEDY in Birth Control

New Haven, Conn., Jan. 21 (AP)—A nation whose working middle class is restricting its families to pay for the unlimited families of persons on relief was pictured today by Prof. Ellsworth S. Huntington, of Yale, president of the American Eugenics Society, in discussing birth rate in the United States.

"Where will we get off," Prof. Huntington asked, if this sort of thing continues?"

Hauptmann's 'Master Mind' Pores Over Bank Records

By International News Service

Flemington, N. J., Jan. 21—Bruno Richard Hauptmann is now "master-minding" his defense at his trial for the murder of Baby Lindbergh.

He came into court today with a crystal-clear picture of the state's exhibits concerning his financial affairs from April 2, 1932, the date the $50,000 Lindbergh ransom was paid, until last September 19, when he was arrested and found with $14,600 of the tainted money.

Hauptmann spent his entire week-end studying photostatic copies of brokerage and banking records in the name of himself and his wife—records which the state was to introduce as evidence today.

The enigmatic prisoner with the vast intellectual conceit put in far more time over the accounts than did his four attorneys.

"Every time I went to his cell on Saturday, he was buried in the documents," Warden McCrea said.

"He was at them until midnight. He made many notations with a pencil as he studied the papers. We allowed him to use a pencil, but kept guards watching him very closely to prevent him from any suicide attempt with it."

Hauptmann has not been permitted to wear a belt, necktie or shoe laces, or possess any sharp instrument for fear he might try to end his life.

ROBLES JUNE READS BRUNO'S TRIAL

By International News Service

Tucson, Ariz., Jan. 21—No child in the nation today is following the trial of Bruno Hauptmann more closely than June Robles, 6, whose fate came within hours of being that of the Lindbergh baby.

June, was held by kidnapers 19 days last May before she was found buried alive in a desert grave, is greatly interested in the German carpenter's case. As soon as she comes home from school, she gets the newspaper to follow the developments.

Like the Lindbergh case, the Robles enigma is slowly lengthening in time. Although nine months have passed and numerous suspects have been arrested, no one yet has been directly charged with the crime.

Detectives agree the Robles case, like that of the Lindbergh baby, was the work of clever amateurs, not gangsters.

ODD SUBJECTS For B. U. Theses

Boston University archives reveal that since the founding in 1874 of the graduate school 1767 theses and dissertations have been written for the master of arts and doctors of philosophy degrees.

The two oldest theses are "The Nature of Revelation" and "Does Holiness Require a Special Organ?"

Among the subjects chosen for the dissertations are the following: "Social Problems of the Punjab Village," "Infant Feeding," "Love as a Social Force," "The Biology of Twinning," "An Argument for Monogamy," and "The Lure of Gold."

EL TO VOTE On Purchase

Boston Elevated stockholders will meet on Wednesday to decide whether the Boston Elevated shall purchase the Chelsea division of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railways. The El was authorized by the Legislature in 1932 to make the purchase, the price not to exceed $1,700,000.

Says Fisch Called Self 'John'

Copyright, 1935, by the Associated Press.

New York, Jan. 21—Mrs. Curt Schwartz, a Bronx housewife, said today Isador Fisch was known as "John" during a transatlantic crossing after the Lindbergh kidnaping.

"John" was the name taken by the man who collected the $50,000 Lindbergh ransom—a part imputed to Fisch by Bruno Richard Hauptmann's defense.

"Fisch was a most peculiar character," Mrs. Schwartz said. "My husband and I sailed with him on the steamship Washington, when he went back to his home in Leipzig to die.

"He always gave us his name as 'John', and later, when he wrote us letters and postal cards from Leipzig, he signed that name."

Tour Boom Asked

An appropriation of $3000 yearly to advertise Dukes County as a summer resort was asked today in a bill filed in the House by Representative Ernest J. Dean of Chilmark.

Huge Old Age Cost Bared, May Reach 4000 Million

Washington, Jan. 21—A staggering estimate of the cost of old-age pensions, reaching two to four billions a year ultimately, even on a modest basis, was disclosed today in a hitherto unpublished report of the President's committee on economic security.

The figures may be the administration's "ace in the hole" in fighting congressional efforts to expand President Roosevelt's program.

Striking declarations made by the committee include:

One-half of 7,500,000 people over 65 now are dependent.

If a compulsory employer-worker contributory old-age pension plan is not begun for the young now (which is contemplated), the federal contribution for old-age pensions would reach $1,294,300,000 by 1980.

The compulsory annuities plan is estimated to provide an income of $2,200,000,000 a year by 1980.

Within 25 to 30 years, the actual number of people over 65 will have doubled.

The depression will inevitably increase the old-age problem.

So staggering were some figures submitted by the actuaries that the committee rejected them as extravagant.

The modest administration estimate of $50,000,000 for federal contribution to state old-age pension plans next year and $125,000,000 each following year is based on a belief that many states will not grant pensions.

INTERCEPT WIFE'S LETTER TO HAUPTMANN

By Associated Press

Flemington, N. J., Jan. 21—Mrs. Anna Hauptmann started to pass a letter to her husband today as the 14th day of his trial opened, but a New Jersey state trooper intercepted it.

Hauptmann had extended his hand to take the letter when the trooper swiftly stopped his wife.

She then gave the folded sheet of paper to Chief Defense Counsel Edward J. Reilly.

Wearing her now familiar dark blue dress, the former bakery waitress sat with folded hands as a certified public accountant told how bank and brokerage accounts of the couple had swollen between April 2, 1932, and the date of Hauptmann's arrest.

COYNE BILL Favors Accused

A bill which would give the accused the same opportunity as the accuser in regard to appearance before the grand jury on indictment proceedings was filed today in the House by Representative Francis X. Coyne of Dorchester.

SAUGUS GIRL in Boxing Class

The art of selfdefense is not only necessary to young men but indispensable to the young woman, is the belief of Miss Emily Davis, 16, of 24 Victor street, Saugus.

She has registered for the boxing lessons sponsored by the ERA.

There are 150 boys registered in teh training course also.

Miss Davis, a sophomore in Saugus high school, is the daughter of Mary E. Davis. She feels, she said, the lessons are necessary to enable her "to take care of herself."

BURGLARS TAKE Safe in Roxbury

Burglars carried away the safe of Green's Pastry Shop, 121 Dudley street, Roxbury, the police were informed today.

There was no money in the strongbox, but it contained valuable papers. It was taken during the night.

Cash for Schools

Mayor John D. Devir of Malden has submitted to the federal Public Works Administration a request for funds to defray half the cost of a new Malden high school and two modern buildings to replace old wooden schoolhouses. The three projects would exceed $1,000,000 in cost.

KARPIS Hunted HERE

BANDIT FLEES GUN FIGHT

Copyright, 1935, by the Associated Press

Atlantic City, N. J., Jan. 21—The nation's "Public Enemy No. 1" and a fellow gunman from the mid-west were hunted from Massachusetts to Maryland today.

But police were confident they had bottled in this island resort the two desperadoes who machine-gunned their way past a raiding squad.

Alvin Karpis, wanted as co-leader of the Bremer kidnaping gang and currently Number 1 on the government's list of wanted men, cleared a path with lead when police sought to arrest him yesterday for the theft of an automobile.

With him went Harry Campbell, who, clad only in underwear, stole another car and drove off. Campbell is believed to have been wounded in the shooting.

The police learned their identities from two women companions seized in the raid on a little hotel. The women were listed as Dolores Delaney, 21, and Winona Burdette, 22, also known as Mrs. Louise Campbell.

Shot in the leg, but not seriously wounded, the Delaney woman was treated at a hospital where she already had registered in anticipation of childbirth. A detective's cheek was gashed by a slug from the submachine gun.

Department of Justice agents, their roundup of the reputed Bremer band complete except for Karpis, poured into Atlantic City with submachine guns and tear gas bombs.

Trailed From Florida

Atlantic City police had received a request from Florida to be on the lookout for a stolen car, the occupants of which were known to have a shotgun and automatic pistol. Patrolman Elias Nash spied the machine in a garage near the boardwalk.

The men who left it there were traced to the adjacent Dun-Mor hotel, and a squad of detectives and police set out to arrest them.

The gangsters had been trailed north from Aklawaha, Fla., where federal guns last week wiped out Kate "Ma" Barker, brains of the Bremer snatch, and her son, Fred Barker.

"Stick 'em up," he commanded.

Firing as he turned, the bandit sent a burst of slugs at the doorway as Mulhern ducked.

Karpis fired a volley through the door of the women's room to awaken them—police said it was one of those shots which struck his companion—and then dashed down a back stairway.

NEW PRISON Favored by Curley

Governor Curley is leaning toward abandonment and demolition of the state prison in Charlestown, it was learned today.

At his inaugural, the governor favored the prison as a receiving station for serious offenders.

The governor, it is said, now believes that it would be more economical to establish the receiving station at the Concord reformatory or at the Norfolk prison.

"Gunman's 'Girl'"

Police Say Killers Quit Her

(Picture from International News Photograph Service)

Police throughout the country today were looking for Alvin Karpis, No. 1 Public Enemy.

Underworld "honor" didn't keep Harry Campbell, alleged gangster's henchman, from "taking a run-out" on this girl, 21-year-old Winona Burdett, according to Atlantic City, N. J., police. They arrested Miss Burdett and another young woman after Campbell and "public enemy" Alvin Karpis had shot their way from Danmore hotel

LIGHTS 3 CITIES ASK RATE SLASH

Everett, Malden, Melrose and Medford want lower light rates. The State Department of Public Utilities today had a petition from them. It asks an investigation of the Malden Electric and the Malden and Melrose Gas Light companies.

The firms, according to the petition, are violating the spirit of the 1934 statute that abolished service charges. Said Mayor Robert A. Perkins of Melrose:

"When the 50-cent service charge, was in effect, the first 15 kw hours for electricity were at the rate of 6½ cents the kw hour.

"Today the first two kw hours cost 63 cents—the 50-cent charge plus two kw hours at 6½ cents.

"The same is true of gas bills. We paid 13 cents per 100 cubic feet for the first 2000. Today we pay 75 cents for the first 200 cubic feet.

"This is the old service charge plus 24 cents for the gas.

6 MEN TO TRAVEL ON 1 TICKET

Immigration officials will deport, on one ticket, Earl Gray of Cambridge; Edward Michael Cavendish, Edward Noughton, and Edward J. Houghton of England; Michael O'Reilly of the Irish Free State; and Robert Crawford of Holland and Australia.

Police arrested him—for all of the names adorn one man—after he attempted to crash a private party in a Boston night club, they said.

Passports from England and Ireland, and bank and railroad credentials from the United States were found on him. New York records showed. Boston police said, that he had been in jail in at least three countries, as a travelling thief.

EX-BOXER HELD for Shooting Affray

Brockton, Jan. 21 (AP)—Charles M. Donovan, former welterweight boxer, pleads not guilty in court today to five charges growing out of an alleged shooting affray.

Judge William G. Rowe ordered Donovan remanded to jail in default of $4100 bail pending a hearing January 25.

Donovan was captured in a local hotel last night an hour after he alleged shot and slightly wounded Max Perlstein, assistant manager of a Brockton theater, in a downtown restaurant.

Cradles of Crime Must Be Stopped

By T. EARL SULLENGER
Professor of Criminology, Municipal University of Omaha

Criminologists agree there is no such thing as a "crime wave." When the widespread extent of crime is brought to the attention of the public, the public says, and believes, there is a "crime wave."

Crime is always with us. It can be smashed, not today, not tomorrow, but in the future if we take the proper steps now.

We can reduce crime by saving our youth from delinquency. We can discourage it among adults by making punishment more certain.

We can defeat crime by turning on the spotlight—making the public aware of the cost of crime.

Efficient administration of existing laws, possible if the court system is revised, should deter habitual criminality.

Honest functioning of a Federal police system should rob crime of its big profits.

The nation wants 12 to 14 billion dollars a year on crime, paying for its court system, for police, and in actual money loss.

In Nebraska we believe an ounce of prevention pays big dividends in our youth.

A $10 bill spent for character building for a boy or girl keeps the child off the streets, out of delinquency, and puts him into good habits for leisure time.

It costs Nebraska $429 a year to maintain a boy or girl in a reformatory. Ten dollars against $429.

A good citizen against a young criminal.

Certain, swift punishment is the best weapon against the adult criminal. Proper training of our youth is the best means of reducing crime in the next generation and later generations.

Invitation to Japan Interests Garden Club Members

By BETTY ALDEN

"THOUGHTS are things on aerial wing that are swifter than carrier doves" . . . As we sit before our typewriter hearing the swish and slop of slush and the snow falling outside our window, and feeling (a very unpleasant feeling, indeed) the wetness of our shoes, we lean back in our chair and are thankful for the gift of thought, which can transport us, "swifter than carrier doves," to the day when we shall see the first robin and the first hesitant shoots of the crocus bulbs predict warmer, sunnier days to come . . .

MRS. ALEXANDER McKAY SMITH

Those future spring days which hold so much appeal for us must be even more eagerly anticipated by the members of the Garden Club of America, who have been (or will be) chosen to represent their local club on the pilgrimage to Tokio in April . . .

Following the annual meeting at the Garden Club of America in California, the members have been invited by the Japan Horticultural Society to visit Tokio during the enchanting cherry blossom season . . . In most cases the president will represent her club but in case she is unable a substitute has to be selected . . .

Mrs. Clement S. Houghton of Chestnut Hill will represent the Chestnut Hill Garden Club and Mrs. Roger Hatch has been chosen to bring back the exciting tales about visits to Japanese gardens, and perhaps even Hawaiian gardens, to the members of the Cohasset Club . . .

From Honolulu, where she is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Henry Lapham, will go to Tokio to join the travelling garden enthusiasts . . .

Among Fortunate Ones

A GREAT PROCESS of selection is going on in all the socially elite garden clubs (those who raise beautiful enough blooms to establish their eligibility to belong to the Garden Club of America) for only one member of each can be chosen to attend . . . In most cases the president will represent her club but in case she is unable a substitute has to be selected . . .

Mrs. Clement S. Houghton of Chestnut Hill will represent the Chestnut Hill Garden Club and Mrs. Roger Hatch has been chosen to bring back the exciting tales about visits to Japanese gardens, and perhaps even Hawaiian gardens, to the members of the Cohasset Club . . .

From Honolulu, where she is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Henry Lapham, will go to Tokio to join the travelling garden enthusiasts . . .

Griselda Higginson's Bridal Plans

WHILE THE GARDEN CLUB members wait expectantly until April for their journey to the land of Cherry blossoms, Griselda Higginson has only to wait until January 30 for her trip to the land of orange blossoms . . . on that day at 12:30 she will march down the aisle of Leslie Lindsey Memorial Chapel to become the bride of Abram S. Hewitt of New York . . . Dr. Phillips E. Osgood will read the marriage service and Mr. Francis Lee Higginson will give his daughter away . . . the wedding breakfast will be served at the Higginson home on Commonwealth avenue . . .

Mrs. Alexander McKay Smith, the former Joan Higginson, will come on from her home in Virginia to attend her sister as matron of honor, and also included in the bridal entourage will be a recent bride, Mrs. Alfred Kidder, 2d (Mary Barbour); Miss Harriet Scoville of Cornwall, Ct., fiance of Miss Higginson's brother; Beatrice Phillips, daughter of the Under Secretary of State and Mrs. William Phillips of Boston and Washington; Alida Goodwin, a cousin of the prospective bride; Mary Hewitt of New York, sister of the bridegroom, and Lucy Rantoul . . .

There will be a great turnout of fashionables for this wedding for it will be farewell to the popular Griselda, who after an European honeymoon, will make her new home in New York . . . Her fiance, who attended New College at Oxford, and graduated from the Columbia Law School, will have a Britisher as his best man . . . Hugh McClure Smith of London, who is visiting in New York . . .

Miss Higginson, who is one of the best liked girls in the prominent North Shore set, is of the quiet serious type with great poise and dignity . . . She was graduated from Winsor, studied in Paris and made her debut at a tea at her parents' home last winter . . .

POST-DEBS chat between dances

MISS MARY IVES — MISS ALICE BURRAGE

THE CROWDED DEBUTANTE CALENDAR cannot crowd the post-debs off the social map and these two popular members of the latter group are shown enjoying a chat between dances at the first of three post-debutante events. This initial dance was held recently at the Vendome. The happy pair are Miss Alice Burrage and Miss Mary Ives, both of whom were frequently guests of honor at gala events during their coming-out season. Trinity Alumnae Salon

MRS. ANDREW P. LANE of Dorchester will open her home, at 49 Sargent street, for the first of the winter salons sponsored by the Trinity College alumnae.

On this occasion the alumnae and their non-Trinity friends will have for their guest speaker the Rev. Edward F. Tivnan, S. J., now located at Bellermine House, Cohasset. Father Tivnan's subject is "The Oxford Movement."

The hostess will be assisted in receiving by Mrs. Andrew F. Lane of Newton Center, the latter a Trinitarian, formerly of Cincinnati, O., and Mrs. John R. Kehoe, Dorchester.

The committee in charge, under the direction of Mrs. John A. Ginty, Jr., includes Miss Margaret Salisway, Dorchester; Miss Ruth Cox, West Roxbury; Mrs. Vincent J. Kelley and Mrs. William J. Lyons, Newton Center; Mrs. Joseph Ford, Jr., and Mrs. John H. Hession, Belmont; Mrs. Arthur Barry, Peabody.

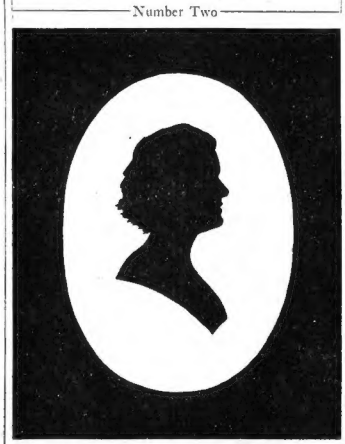
Debutante Silhouettes

Number Two



TALL AND JUNOESQUE is this debutante, with dark hair and soft brown oriental eyes. She is quite an accomplished and travelled young person, having studied at Beaver and Bennington and visited most of the countries of Europe, ad interim.

She has a famous namesake; her middle name is the same as that of the feminine opportunist who made suggestions to John Alden so many years ago.

She lives in Chestnut Hill and recently made her debut at The Country Club, do you know her?

Madamoiselle of this silhouette, if you recognize yourself and would care to call us you may have the original drawing of your profile.

YOU CAN'T "KILL" COLDS

but you may Control them!

Don't run risks with so-called "cold-killers." It's so easy to upset the stomach and lower body resistance with constant internal dosing. For fewer and shorter colds—let Vicks Plan for Better Control of Colds help you and your family. It is safe and effective. Proved in thousands of clinical tests and in actual home use by millions.

To help PREVENT Colds — VICKS VA-TRO-NOL

At the first sniffle, sneeze or nasal irritation, apply a few drops of Vicks Va-tro-nol. Its timely use helps to avoid many annoying colds.

To help SHORTEN a Cold — VICKS VAPORUB

If a cold has developed, apply VapoRub at bedtime. Its poultice-vapor action—all night long—gives soothing relief. Avoids "dosing."

VICKS PLAN FOR BETTER CONTROL OF COLDS

EXTRA SPECIAL :-: :-: :-: DAILY TRUE SHORT STORY

Film Star Finds Her Romance By Mail

THE marriage of Edythe Wheeler, glamorous film star, to Jack Masters, an obscure extra, made the front pages of all the newspapers, but none of the papers knew the half of the story.

What they did know was that Jack anout a year and a half before the marriage, had saved Miss Wheeler from serious injury or death when he suddenly rushed in and thrust her aside as a heavy portion of the setting suddenly tottered and fell.

After receiving much publicity for his heroism—and finding that in spite of it he was still playing "extra" roles only—Jack returned to Broadway and vaudeville.

ROUTINE LIFE

But soon even that incident was forgotten and Jack's life became routine.

However, the whole thing came back with a jolt, one day, when a friend, Arthur Fawcett, brought him a letter to "Jack Masters" but the address was a strange one, not his own.

Arthur had found it among the mail in the theatrical boarding house in which he was staying.

Jack opened the envelope and found a check made out to "Cash" for $200 and signed by Edythe Wheeler. With the check there was a note which said:

"I am sorry to hear you have still made no booking and I hope this check will carry you a little longer."

It was signed Edythe Wheeler.

"Say, somebody's gypping her —in my name," he cried. "Where'd you say you got this, Arthur?"

"From the mail at the boarding house. I found it there while looking for my own mail and I figured somebody thought you were living there, so I brought it to you."

"Well, what do you say we do with this?" asked Jack, waving the check in the air. "Return it to Edythe Wheeler or try to get the crook first?"

"Let's get the crook, Jack," suggested Arthur. "And, listen, I have an idea. We'll set a trap for him."

"Let's fix up this envelope again so it could not be recognized that it had ever been opened and let's put the letter back among the other letters. The crook's bound to pick it up."

"That's it, Arthur," agreed Jack eagerly. "Just the thing."

It took a lot of work to make the envelope appear as if it had never been tampered with, but the two finally completed the job.

Then they called on a detective they knew and told him their scheme. The letter was thrown back among the other letters and Jack and Arthur took their station in a room directly outside the hall where the letters were kept, while the detective stayed outside the house.

GYPPER CAUGHT

Then, directly after each tenant looked for his mail and left the house, Jack and Arthur made a dash to see whether the one to "Jack Masters" had been taken.

Finally, with one male tenant the letter vanished and Jack and Arthur rushed outside to notify the detective.

He sped after the man and caught up with him about a block away.

As Jack suspected, the man was a trouper whom he knew but vaguely but who obviously knew of the debt Miss Wheeler owed Jack—and capitalized on it.

No sooner was the man in custody than Jack decided to get to Hollywood and report the matter personally to Miss Wheeler.

Ushered into her presence, he told her the story of the fraud perpetrated on her and asked how much she had lost in that manner.

She showed him several letters she had received from "Jack Masters" at the boarding house address in New York, each telling of "Jack's plight" in trying to get work and each asking for a small sum "just for a little while."

The writer urged her to make it checks out to "cash" as they were easier to cash.

She had fallen hook, line and sinker for the fraud and had sent four checks for about $1100.

But she advised that the charges against the prisoner be dropped because she did not want any publicity in the matter.

And each time Arthur sent a telegram to have the trouper released and to drop the case.

But the interest which Edythe Wheeler took in Jack thereafter grew by leaps and bounds.

For weeks all her spare time she gave to him and she finally prevailed upon him to let her help in getting him a decent film role.

And he discovered soon that it did not take much coaxing to make her also take another role —that of his wife.

Eye Drops Assure Glamour

POSED BY JOSEPHINE HUTCHINSON

Lotion Banishes Tired Feeling

By JULIET SHELBY

IF YOU go into one of the expensive Fifth Avenue beauty salons for a facial or skin treatment, the operator never fails to bathe your eyes with soothing eye-drops.

She asks you to open your eye, then, with a tiny glass tube, she drops the refreshing lotion into it. And how good it feels! All that tired sting is banished, and eyes feel as if they "belong" once again.

Not all women can go into these salons for treatments. But every woman can use these same eyedrops to soothe her eyes.

Exquisite Josephine Hutchinson has the most appealing eyes I have ever seen. It is no wonder that she has made two successes—one on the stage, another on the screen. Her eyes do it for her. All her feelings, all her aspirations, all her appreciations are expressed in her clear, beautiful young eyes.

Her eyes are bathed daily. At night, when the day's work at the Warner Bros. studio is finished she creams her eyelashes of the mascara and soothes her eyes with refreshing drops. You, too, should abide by her routine.

After your day's rush, care for your eyes. Cleanse them, rest them and bathe them. Let them keep that fine fresh look of youth —young eyes, what an asset they are to any woman's beauty!

The refreshing eye-drops of which I speak may be bought at the better stores.

You can easily apply them to each eye with the dropper; after a second or two, pull the upper eyelid over the lower to enable the soothing liquid to cover the entire eyeball. That is how you are benefited by it. Here's hoping your new resolution will be to keep your eyes fresh, young and compelling.

If you would like to know the name of these eye drops, call Miss Shelby, Liberty 4000, or write to her at the Boston Evening American, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Bridge Luncheons Stress Simplicity

By MARTHA LEE

From Martha Lee's Morning Broadcast Over Station WAAB.

What to serve at your next bridge party is a much disputed question that should be considered from several angles. Now experts seldom eat much before a tournament so they can think clearly.

But when the party is a social afternoon among friends, it seems hardly necessary to take our bridge that seriously. Still it is not a time for elaborate feasting either.

Time was when a bridge party meant a full course luncheon or dinner, but today we strike a medium with the simple plate luncheon now in vogue—and a charmingly practical balance it is, too. It simplifies entertaining and permits the service of special dainty dishes.

Tomato Juice Appetizers
Lobster Souffle with Cucumber Sauce
Hot Rolls Currant Jelly
Chinese Cabbage Salad
Layer Angel Cake with Fresh Fruit Filling
Candied Fruit Peel
Coffee Nuts

LOBSTER SOUFFLE WITH CUCUMBER SAUCE

1 cup lobster meat
¼ tsp. salt
⅛ tsp. paprika
½ cup soft bread crumbs
½ cup milk
Yolks of 3 eggs
2 tsps. lemon juice
Whites of 3 eggs

Separate the lobster meat into small pieces. Add the seasonings. Cook bread crumbs in milk 5 minutes, add lobster meat and the egg yolks beaten until thick and lemon-colored. Then cut and fold in the whites of eggs, beaten until stiff and dry. Turn into a buttered dish, set in a pan of hot water, and bake in a moderate oven until firm. Serve with cucumber sauce.

MRS. CULBERTSON:

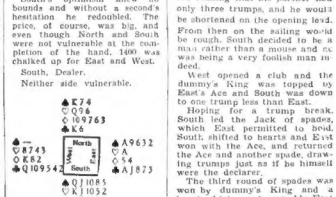
A Foolish Redouble By an Optimistic Soul

On the hand below, North and South got to the final contract of four spades, which was promptly doubled by a lady who is known for her conservatism.

South's optimism knew no bounds and without a second's hesitation he redoubled. The price, of course, was big, and even though North and South were not vulnerable at the completion of the hand, 1400 was chalked up for East and West.

South, Dealer.

Neither side vulnerable.



The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1♠	Pass	2♠	Pass
3♡	Pass	3 N T (1)	Pass
4◇ (2)	Pass	4♠ (3)	Double (4)
Redouble	Pass	Pass	Pass

(1) North chose to bid three no-trump rather than three spades for two reasons. With only three trumps he did not want to give the impression that he hand was only suited to spade play and his scattered honor strength justified the slight additional encouragement of the three notrump bid.

(2) South with a void in clubs returns to a suit contract.

(3) Prefer the first bid suit when there is little choice.

(4) The soundest double of the year.

South's hand, although a good one, is by no means iron-clad. South has been warned by the double about a bad spade division.

South should have known from the bidding that his partner had only three trumps, and he would be shortened on the opening lead. From then on the sailing would be rough. South decided to be a man rather than a mouse and as was being a very foolish man indeed.

West opened a club and the dummy's King was topped by East's Ace and South was down to one trump less than East.

Hoping for a trump break, South led the Jack of spades, which East permitted to hold. South shifted to hearts and East won with the Ace, and returned the Ace and another spade, drawing trumps just as if he himself were the declarer.

The third round of spades was won by dummy's King and a heart which was trumped by East followed. A club return was captured by South with his last Trump.

In the meantime West had slipped. Not being as optimistic a player as South, he did not realize that his partner held more trumps than East and he consequently discarded one of his clubs instead of a losing heart or diamond.

When East got in again by trumping another heart with the only remaining trump, East and West now took their club tricks but since West had discarded one, the declarer was able to win the last two tricks with his diamond Ace and a good heart. Nevertheless, North and South were down four.

South complained to his partner about the bad break which he had encountered in the trump suit.

There is no doubt but that this was unfortunate.

Applying Nail Polish

Question: Is there any particular way of applying nail polish? I always manicure my own nails but the polish never seems to go on evenly, and in a day or so it cracks and chips. Is there such a thing as a polish with an oil base? IRENE D., Plymouth.

Answer: There is a decided knack in putting on finger nail veneer. It must be distributed evenly, and laid on in a single film. In this way it will stay put longer, and won't go spotty so quickly. Work from the nail base to the caves with the brush. We must urge you to let the half moon be revealed. It has decorative quality. Painting the nail eave isn't a good idea. The neat, clear cut border line makes a nifty trimming. Write to me if you wish for the name of several good nail polishes which have oil base. Enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope.

Oatmeal Baths

Question: Is there a cure for goose-flesh? My arms and legs are rough and as I am taking a trip to Florida soon would like to look my best in a bathing suit. I cannot afford an expensive preparation just now. Katherine L., Boston.

Answer: Have you ever tried taking oatmeal baths for the bath. They are delightful softeners and really do away with that goose-flesh feeling. Merely mix together four ounces of oatmeal, two ounces of almond meal, and one ounce of powdered castile soap. Make small bags of two thicknesses of cheesecloth and fill them. They can be used only twice but it is like having a milk bath when you use one.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:
I am 22 and divorced. I have taught school. This summer I met an assistant professor. He was a bachelor, but drank a great deal.
I am visiting him to see if he is still drinking. ANXIOUS.

Unless your professor has suggested the visit, don't you think such a descent might be a little embarrassing?

LOVE DENIED

By Louise Long and Ethel Doherty

Suicide Is Tried By Cora

Ten glamorous, exciting days had been cut from the calendar of the 15 remaining before the wedding, when the bridegroom-to-be returned to his sumptuous hotel quarters, a little before 5 in the morning, to find slips on his desk informing him that New York had been trying to get him for hours on the distance telephone.

When the connection was put through again a familiar voice came clearly: "Hello Kent. This is your brother, Leigh."

"Well, well— What's up?"

"Where the deuce have you been? I've been calling for hours."

"Just got in from Montecito—swell party—Sharlene's bridesmaid. You should have come West, old boy. It's a good crowd—plenty of excitement. I kind of like this getting married . . . Then at an indistinguishable noise at the other end of the wire, Kent raised his voice: "I say, it's great sport getting married!"

Cora Shoots Self

"Uh-huh," came the weary answer, "but that isn't what I called you up about."

"What's on your mind, Leigh?"

"It's about—Cora."

"What the devil does she want?" Kent's voice sharpened. "She's sick, Kent—I mean, she's not going to live—"

"What's the matter with her?"

"For one thing, she's been seeing the papers about your marriage." . . . He paused and when there was no answer to that, he went on: "She's written you. I've tried to hold her level. But—you didn't answer her—"

"Yes? Well—"

Well—she shot herself."

"Ye gods!"

"You've got to come, Kent. You've got to fly here and see her before she dies. I've promised her—you've got to do it, old man."

"I can't, Leigh! I can't do it. Sharlene mustn't know about this—we're going to be married in five days—our whole future happiness, depends on—"

"You owe a lot to Cora, my boy. She hasn't got any future happiness, and she wants to see you before she dies."

"I can't do it!" Kent repeated doggedly.

It's the only thing you can do, Kent. I'm keeping it out of the papers here. Tell Sharlene it's business—tell her anything. Fly here and fly back. Cora will die easier, if she lives to see you."

"Hello, hello," Leigh called anxiously.

"Yes . . . I'll come. I'll wire you."

He put down the receiver and began to pace up and down furiously. What right did Cora have to put him in this position? What did she do it for? . . . Dying—poor little Cora! He rushed to the telephone again.

Calls for Plane

"The night clerk, please . . . Mr. Dameroll speaking. I've got to go to New York right away. What mail plane can I get? I want to go straight through."

"Let's see. It's after five o'clock. You'd better get the mail plane to Salt Lake at 7:30. Hop on from there. I'll wire ahead for reservations."

"Thanks. I'll be right back. Shan't take anything but a bag. Just leave things in my bungalow as they are."

A rush of packing—nervous, making mistakes, swearing. A shower and a change of linen. Interruptions from people bringing breakfast. The night clerk with the ticket. Writing checks. A taxi waiting.

No time to rush out to Beverly Hills. Calling Sharlene on the telephone. After an interminable wait a servant answering, then finally Sharlene's sleepy voice, struggling with alarm:

"Kent! What on earth—?"

"Listen, darling, my brother has just phoned from New York that my presence is needed there instantly. See?"

"Oh! The market—?"

"Yes, yes, the market. I've got to go or lose my shirt."

"But, Kent, the wedding—only five days off—"

"I'll be back in plenty of time. I'm taking the mail plane in a few minutes. I'll fly back here, too. I'll only be in New York a day. So sorry, darling, but it can't be helped."

"Why of course, Kent but it's an exhausting trip. I hate to have you go."

"It kills me not to see you, but there's no time. My brother's been trying to get me all night while we were in Santa Barbara. I've been delayed for hours, now."

"Too bad! So sorry you have to go. You're sure it couldn't be arranged by phone?"

"No. My presence is required."

"Well, goodbye, Kent. I won't keep you—I know you've got a lot to do. I wish I could pack for you—"

"It's done. I'm only taking a bag."

"Good luck, dear. I love you!"

"And I love you—goodby, sweet!"

A frantic rush out to the airport in Glendale in the early morning air. The big tri-motored plane humming and throbbing. Mail sacks loaded, steps still down, but everybody aboard, impatient to be gone. Official, with hand, at the steps. Kent thrusting a bill at the taxi driver, grasping his bag and plunging through the gate.

Having to stop to sign the book, being fairly pushed into the cabin. The door slamming behind him as he made his way down the narrow aisle to a seat toward the front. The ship beginning to move. Taxiing down the field. Why didn't she rise?

Oh,—plowed ground and a team of mules ambling out of the way at a snail's pace. The plane taxiing forward again and taking to the air.

The green Verdugo hills and little homes dropping away. Kent's head throbbing with the throb of the motors. Cora! To do a thing like this! Why, she'd always been so reasonable. She'd never pushed any claim on him. Oh, but if Sharlene should get hold of this!

He could never love a woman in his life the way he loved Sharlene. . . .

Desert, yawning chasms below, heat, desolation. Why did Cora have to pull this? Could Leigh keep it out of the papers? Sharlene must never know. Oh, Lord! Lord! please—Silly of him, going back to his childhood beliefs to appeal for help.

Out in the airport to stretch his legs. Heat and a scorching wind. Glad to be aloft again with the throb of the motors to keep his thoughts company.

Spiraling down from the height of the Wasatch Range into Salt Lake. Threatening thunder storm. Another plane. On and on monotonously through summer showers. Changing planes . . . Omaha . . . Chicago . . . Pitiful, exhausted sleep. Cora, dying, obsessing him. But the fear of Sharlene finding it out obsessing him still more.

Read the next installment how Kent consents to wed old love reported to be dying.

"Regency Frill"

IT'S the coming trend—you will hear of the "Regency" period frequently in connection with your home and fashion. And so much like the frill on an early 1800 beau's shirt is the pleated frill of Mousseline and lace on this printed crepe frock that it is called "Regency Ruffles." It's a charmingly giddy geometric print of red, green and white on a black ground. Sleeves are full to the wrist, the belt is read and black suede. A budget frock, it is under fifteen dollars. From a Boston shop. For information call Annice Brink, Fashion Editor, Liberty 4000, or write her at the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Welcome to SISTER'S Fiance

By MRS. BEECKMAN

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have just learned that my sister, who lives in a southern state, is to be married. I know the boy she is to marry quite well, but have never been what one might call "buddies" with him. Is it my duty to write to him and if so, what type of letter should I write?

S.

Yes, by all means write your sister's fiance, telling him how happy you are about your sister's engagement to him, welcoming him into your family, and chatting with him in a "sisterly" letter.

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

In giving a little informal dinner, is it permissible to place teaspoons with tiny oyster cocktails? I have no oyster forks.

GRATEFUL READER

It would be better to go about your planning for this dinner in the reverse way. That is, if you haven't oyster forks, I'd plan, if I were you, some other course more convenient to your service. I don't think it would be at all convenient to place teaspoons with the oyster cocktails. Rather than make the lack of convenient service conspicuous, I'd always rather plan to "do something else," serve something else. Why not, for instance, a fruit cocktail, with which you could serve a teaspoon?

Madge Thrills At Idea Of Trip

CHAPTER 247

MY HEART thrilled to the protest in Dicky's voice as he demanded, "What about Madge?" when they were planning the method of taking him to the hospital. It is the peculiar thrill which comes when one realizes that one is needed by the person one loves best, and comes in its perfection only to a wife of years' standing, when her husband asks for her presence beside him in time of need.

My father's voice was quick in asking a countering question.

"Do you wish her to go with you?"

"Of course I do." Dicky's voice was querulous. "That is, if she wants to go."

He smiled up at me whimsically, and I flashed an answering, comradely smile back at him.

"She wants to go," I said with emphasis, and then Katherine's murmur sounded again in my ears.

"What about Faith, if we both go?" she asked.

I caught my breath in dismay as I remembered the panic that had been mine for Faith, Junior and Roderick, after Lee Chow's departure. In the face of his diminished threats, did I dare leave my children, even for my husband?

I shot a glance at my father. He had shared those fears of Lee Chow, even if he had not voiced them, and I wondered what he would say to my forsaking the role of protecting mother for that of consoling wife.

I had not long to wait. He spoke directly to Katherine, as if, incredibly, he had heard that murmured query of hers.

"I am sure it will be perfectly all right for you both to go," he said. "Remember, Mr. and Mrs. Underwood are both here, and will do nothing save look after the children until we return."

I turned a radiant face to my father. If he thought it was all right for me to go, and meant to accompany Dicky himself, then his fears for the safety of the children must have abated in the last few minutes, and my own terror was proportionately lessened.

My father brought me out of my reverie with a soft command.

"Get a wrap, darling. We are about ready to go."

I looked over at Dicky, and saw that my father was right. Katherine had completed her preparations for his removal, and had taken from a chair the cape which she had brought into the room over her arm, and which she now was adjusting over her uniform.

Lillian was talking to her in a low tone, but as I started for the door my best friend, who never once has failed me in all our long years of intimate association, came quickly after me. With her arm in mine she went through the door and into the hall with me.

"The worst is over, and everybody's on the job to see that nothing else happens."

I stiffened instinctively and faced her.

"Then you know—" I said breathlessly.

Her eyes were clear and candid as they answered my questioning gaze.

"I know nothing," she said, emphasizing the verb, "but conjecture—that is something else again. I've been used to putting two and two together and making five or six out of the addition for a good many years. As far as that goes—come down to cases. How much do you absolutely know yourself?"

"Very little," I told her honestly, "but—"

"Suppose we lay our mutual lack of knowledge upon the table for a few hours," she said briskly. "You have to go with Dicky; I have to look after the children while Katherine is gone with you. And if I mistake not, I'm going to have my work cut out for me in another direction."

My eyes followed hers to where Edith Fairfax sat in an armchair, facing the door out of which we had just come. Her face was almost entirely drained of color, and her eyes were unnaturally large and dark. Harry Underwood was seated by her side, bent toward her, and I saw that he was holding both her hands in an iron, restraining grip.

"On the verge of collapse," Lillian murmured. "Come along with me! Hurry!"

'WITHIN THE GATES' BOOK TO JUDGE

Mystery in Ban Move

Banned from stage, lecture platform and book shop, a copy of "Within the Gates" today was forwarded to Chief Justice Wilfred Bolster, of Municipal Court, by the police.

No explanation of this latest move in the procedure against the O'Casey opus was made at headquarters.

Police Commissioner Joseph J. Leonard, however, said that he would take no action against the Rev. Emerson S. Schwenk of the Church of the Covenant, Universalist.

The minister last night read parts of the play to his congregation. Present were Police Inspector Thomas F. Lyons and a stenographer.

Leonard made his announcement after reading their reports, saying:

"There is nothing here that seems to warrant police action."

Police Superintendent Martin H. King, meanwhile, announced that his men had been unable to purchase a copy of the book within the city limits.

He refused to make any comment on it. He was not, he explained, a member of the censorship board.

From this attitude it was presumed there will be no official interference tonight with Professor Henry W. L. Dana of Cambridge. He has announced that he will read the play at 8 p. m. in the vestry of the Community Church, 6 Byron street.

Boston's action on the play was also attacked last night at the Old South Meeting House Forum. There Miss Anita Block, foreign play reader for the Theatre Guild, of New York, took exception to the official attitude adopted toward the work here.

FOUNTAIN PEN Inventor Dead

Bloomsburg, Pa., Jan. 21 (AP)—Paul E. Wirt, 85, attorney and inventor of a fountain pen, died today at his home.

Wirt started experimenting to make a fountain pen as the result of the constant annoyance of spilling ink on his legal papers. He obtain a patent on his invention and in 1885 placed the pens on the market.

HAS 10 MILLION in Du Pont Stock

Washington, Jan. 21 (AP)—Eugene Dupont, a director of E. I. Dupont De Nemours Company, was shown by reports to the securities commission today to hold $10,228,000 in the securities of the Dupont company.

Dupont held 102,003 common, and 8,893 six per cent debentures. The common was valued at $9,600,000 and the debentures at $728,000. Dupont sold 10,000 common on Dec. 21.

SPIES' FATE Italy Tried 21

Rome, Jan. 21 (AP)—The special tribunal for the defense of the State reported today that 21 spies were condemned in Italy in the last six months of 1934.

The report said seven different secret trials were conducted, resulting in the convictions of 21 persons, including two women. In this group there were two foreigners.

SHOW BEAUTY To Try Films

Hollywood, Jan. 21 (INS)—Frances Grant, 21-year-old former Ziegfeld protegee, and New York's "most beautiful show girl," will give Hollywood a one-year trial.

"If Hollywood doesn't make good I won't take up the option," she said as she displayed a year's Fox Film contract.

TWO BILLIONS for U. S. Income

Washington, Jan. 21 (AP)—Government income for the current fiscal year has passed the $2,000,000,000 mark.

Today's treasury statement put receipts since July 1, 1934, at exactly 2,000,335,488. This total is almost $400,000,000 in excess of the corresponding income a year ago.

40 FLEE HOTEL FIRE IN SALEM

Fire, breaking out suddenly in the ground floor of the Lincoln Hotel, on Lafayette street, Salem, early today, all but trapped 40 guests.

Clad in most instances only in their night attire, the guests were helped down ladders from the second and third floors by police and firemen who answered the general alarm.

The blaze was first discovered when flames were seen pouring from the windows of the J. H. Menette Haberdashery company. They quickly spread to the six other stores on the main floor.

Within a few minutes the fire had burst through the roof and dense clouds of smoke were issuing from the windows from which hung the guests, calling frantically for ladders.

Damage was estimated at between $25,000 and $40,000.

The mysterious fire, thought to be of incendiary origin, which caused $35,000 damage to a warehouse opposite the Salem jail, was being investigated today by fire officials.

The questionable part of the fire, which started in the boiler room of 200-204 Bridge street, was the rapidity with which it gained headway. Three firemen were slightly injured as they fought the blaze.

FIREMEN SAVE SOUTH END CRIPPLE

Frank Godsoe, above, 67, a cripple, was carried to safety by firemen today when flames swept a five story building in which he lives at 1292-300 Washington street, South End.

RADICAL YALE'S DAILY HITS TRADITION

By International News Service

New Haven, Conn., Jan. 21—The Yale News, student daily, admitted publicly today that in 1935 it will be an "unmitigated nuisance," departing radically from political conservatism for the purpose of shaking off the 50-year "dose" of Yale student thought.

The new editorial board, assuming office under the chairmanship of Jonathan B. Bingham, youngest of the seven sons of former U. S. Senator Hiram Bingham, in a statement of policy predicted that Yale daily news would be exciting reading in the coming year.

"Stodgy," "stick-in-the-mud," "censure," were some of the terms used by the editorial board in its "farewell to all that." The board stated:

"This is an emphatic farewell to political conservatism."

SHOE MEN MEET FOR CODE PARLEY

Washington, Jan. 21—Representatives of shoe interests from eastern Massachusetts, including manufacturers, labor leaders and municipal officials, were at the capital today to demand immediate reopening of the now highly controversial shoe code.

Ready to join with them in their protests against wage differentials which they contend have brought wholesale migration of shoe companies from Massachusetts cities to rural communities, are members of the Massachusetts congressional delegation, who already have attacked provisions of the code for the boot and shoe industry.

These include Senator David I. Walsh and Representatives Connery, McCormack, Rogers, Wigglesworth and Andrew, all of whom are expected to appear tomorrow at the NRA hearing.

Girl, Suitor Dying After Bridal Blows

Clinton, Jan. 21—It may never be revealed why Leo J. Lyons, 40, salesman, of Holden, hit his sweetheart, Miss Mildred M. McDonald, 39, with a stove cover in her home here.

Death may seal the lips of both. Miss McDonald is in the Clinton Hospital. She has a skull fracture. Doctors hold slight hope for her recovery.

Lyons, at the Worcester State hospital, is in a comatose condition. Doctors say he has a slim chance of surviving.

The pair were discussing plans for their marriage when, police say, Lyons hit the woman.

HOUSE TO O. K. RELIEF BILL TUESDAY

By International News Service

Washington, Jan. 21—The administration's combined $4,80,000,000 work relief and direct relief bill will be passed by the House tomorrow exactly as desired by President Roosevelt.

House leaders made this promise today as the appropriations committee prepared to report the bill and the House rules committee drafted a "gag rule" for its consideration.

The measure contains the $4,000,000,000 the President wants for his job projects, and $880,000,000 needed to continue direct relief until the works program gets started this summer.

CHANGES IN RAIL METHODS URGED

By Associated Press

Washington, Jan. 21—Modern merchandising methods were urged on the railroads by Joseph B. Eastman's experts today as a means of recouping lost passenger patronage.

A report presented to the transportation co-ordinator, by J. R. Turney, of Eastman's office, recommends lower fares and many changes.

The report recommends among other things that the railroads:

Make rail travel attractive "by eliminating routines and tariffs, indifferent treatment, uncomfortable depots and exorbitant prices."

Establish "fast local service, coordinated by joint rates with highway carriers at a 1½ cent basic fare" per mile.

Establish "for those who want modern conveniences, at reasonable cost, a high speed inter-carrier service at a 3-cent basic fare."

Establish speed de luxe service at a 5-cent basic fare.

Establish "quantity discounts for families, parties, traveling salesmen, lodges, schools and similar groups."

"Unify stations and terminals and reduce terminal switching."

HURT SKIING

Zog Seeks U. S. Bride With Million

By Associated Press

Vienna, Jan. 21—King Zog of Albania, the world's only bachelor sovereign, is eager to wed—and he prefers an American girl, friends disclosed today.

Beauty alone will not be a key to the throne. The lonely 39-year-old ruler has stipulated that his bride also must have ability and charm—and an income of one million dollars a year!

Zog, who is instituting Western reforms in his little mountain kingdom, made known his wish for a queen during the current celebration of the 10th jubilee anniversary of his reign.

The dying wish of Zog's mother, Queen Mother Sadije, a few weeks ago, was that her son marry so he might provide an heir to the throne.

SALE OF GLOUCESTER PLANT BARED

By International News Service

Washington, Jan. 21—The New York Shipbuilding Corporation bought a $14,000,000 Gloucester, Mass., plant from the government for $500,000 after the war, the company's treasurer, N. R. Parker, told the Senate munitions committee today.

Years later, the company's books appraised the property at a little more than $2,000,000.

The witness insisted, however, that the plant, while it cost the government $14,000,000, wasn't worth the $500,000 paid for it.

Evidence placed in the record pictured the plant in Gloucester, known as the Emergency Fleet Corporation, South Yard, as "in the nature of a gift or added fee."

This Is Life
ROBERT E. ROGERS

When you find a new war book highly praised by such experts as Floyd Gibbons, Louis Bromfield, Kermit Roosevelt, Eddie Rickenbacker, Robert E. Sherwood, Beverley Nichols, John P. Marquand and others, you are likely to pick it up with a certain expectation.

When Bromfield tells you that he read it at one sitting, from 9 p. m. to 2 a. m., you feel like testing it out for for yourself.

And when you learn that behind the book there is a thrilling and tragic story of a strong man's fight to come back, aided by a sister's faith and love and determination to help him, that does not by any means detract by the interest.

Robert E. Rogers

My only regret is that although I had promised myself to review the book on January 15, the day of publication, I let myself be forestalled somewhat. The last days before term examinations at M. I. T. are somewhat calculated to make you forget book reviews and such.

Anyway, lots of people will want to read "Heaven High—Hell Deep," by Norman Archibald (Albert and Charles Boni, publishers). Veterans of the great war, particularly men in the aviation service, people who want to bring home to our youngsters of today what war is really like as well as people who believe that war doesn't necessarily brutalize a youth with the right stuff in him.

Prisoner in Germany

Norman Archibald was brought up in Seattle and went to college at Cornell. The United States declared war on Germany April 6, 1917. The next day was his 23d birthday. The following day he was off seeking to enlist in the air service "to get his share of Germans."

Although there wasn't, strictly speaking, much air service, he did manage to be sent to American training fields in France. He went through every step of the process by which he became a flier, an officer, and at length a member of the American air service.

He became a pursuit pilot and saw, one by one, most of his comrades shot down around him. He crashed over the German lines and was sent to various German prisons. He was released soon after the armistice.

But what the shock of imminent daily danger had not been able to do the unspeakable treatment in the German camps accomplished. Thereafter Archibald was not well. He tried this and that job without success.

He was what might be called a case of psychic shell shock. He couldn't settle down. He couldn't forget. Finally he decided on a dangerous cure. He would try to sublimate this neurosis of his, the never-forgotten horror of it, by writing it all out, just as it was, extenuating nothing.

He did the job, suffering but encouraged by his sister, Hazel, Mrs. Eben Draper of Hopedale. After he had finished it he broke down, became seriously ill and had to be sent around the world to recover his health.

Praised as Truthful Account

Meanwhile the book had been received with great enthusiasm at the Boni brothers' publishing office. They tried it out on famous writers and veterans of the flying service, men who had actually seen war. The verdict was that it was one of the most truthful accounts ever set down on paper.

The most fascinating thing about reading it is to see how the man learns to write as he goes along. Archibald was not a professional.

The opening chapters are rather stiff and amateurish; he is feeling his way. As he gets into training in France the style picks up, the human quality, the intensity of interest. By the time he is describing the risks and heroism and escapes and tragedies of the pursuit squadron at the front he is writing not only easily, in professional fashion, but with a great deal of energy.

He uses no tricks, no clichés, he never overplays it, he never sentimentalizes. He is trying to remember as clearly as possible.

When he gets to the horrors of starvation, sickness and death in the German camps he is doing triumphantly (and unconsciously) what Conrad said was the job of the artist—"to make you hear and feel and see, above all to make you see." And in these last chapters he does just that in smashing and tremendous fashion.

A gruelling and terrible cure, but if this notable addition to our books of the war makes this man well again, it will be a notable victory for the power of human determination, loyalty and love, as well as for the healing power of literature for a sick soul.

In many ways this book, "Heaven High—Hell Deep," is a notable expression and record of life.

DELAY PAY CUT in Lawrence

Lawrence, Jan. 21—Following a stormy two-hour session, members of the Lawrence City Council today voted to postpone until Wednesday further action on the proposed ordinance ordering a 10 per cent reduction in wages for members of the fire department.

The ordinance, introduced by Mayor Walter A. Griffin, was the aftermath of members' refusal to sign a volunteer 10 per cent pay cut waiver.

CLARK IN MILLEN BROTHER'S CELL

Without Bail

EX-HUB MAN TO FIGURE IN MURDER CASE

By ARTHUR J. QUINN
Boston Evening American Staff Correspondent
(Copyright, 1935, by the Boston Evening American.)

New York, Jan. 21—In the same Tombs cell which once held Irving Millen, youngest of the Needham (Mass.) bank robbery and slaying triumvirate, Nelson B. Clark, former Massachusetts gubernatorial candidate, sat today facing a possible murder charge.

He had just been held without bail in West Side court as an alleged receiver of goods stolen by four youthful accused bandits and policeman slayers.

After the arraignment he had borrowed $1 from this reporter and had been led back to the cell where Irving Millen, now awaiting the death sentence in Massachusetts, had raved and raged a year ago.

Now Broke

"I haven't got ap enny in the world," said Clark. "I've seen the time when I was worth a million and a half dollars. Once I was ontop of the world. Today I sit in jail.

"Isn't it funny? When you're up there, all the friends you have? But when you drop and get into trouble, the only ones that come to see you are the members of the press.

"I've befriended many people in my time. I don't want to mention any names. I thought at least one of them might have come forward over the week-end, but no one did. Well, I don't mind that.

"I had many friends in Boston and Malden. I knew a great many influential people there.

"It was in California that I met Ray Orley (one of the four alleged slayers held) and I went from California to Florida with him.

"He's my nephew—not a blood relationship, but I've always called him my nephew.

"We went to Florida and while I was there I made the acquaintance of a very beautiful girl; a very fine person—an artist. She came on up North to New York, but we stayed on in Florida. Or-

MOURN DEATH OF BANDITS' VICTIM

RED REVOLUTION DANGER SEEN

Fr. Corrigan

CITES LESSON IN RUSSIAN PLIGHT

Recognition of Russia should be recalled, it was urged by the Rev. Jones I. Corrigan, S. J., professor of social ethics at Boston College.

Condemning Communism as a "mad experiment, foredoomed to fail," Father Corrigan declared:

"The plight of Russia ought to be a lesson to America. America must choose at once by dealing quickly and decisively with the Red menace within our gates if our form of government is to survive.

"The ground is being prepared for revolution.

"The handwriting is on the wall for all who wish to read it."

Father Corrigan charged that Red propagandists are seeking to undermine the morale of the army and navy and are trying to get control of the labor unions.

Directing most of his attack at schools and colleges which he claims are turning the doctrines of Communism, Father Corrigan went on:

"The paramount need of the world today is not the Communist manifesto of Karl Marx but the Christian manifesto of Christ.

"Legislation should be adopted in every state to put an end to the teachings and subversive doctrines in the schools.

"Happily the Supreme Court has ruled that states may punish those who make utterances endangering the foundations of order, declaring that the principle of free speech does not permit teachings which may undermine the government."

HELEN KILLIAN MRS. KILLIAN JOAN KILLIAN

Mrs. Nellie Killian and her two children, Helen, 18 months, and Joan, 4, are the innocent victims of New York's latest bandit outrage in which Nelson Barrett Clark, former Boston man, is being held. Mrs. Killian is the wife of Patrolman James Killian who was killed by one of four young bandits in an attempted Fifth avenue holdup. Clark, police charge, was a "Fagin" who taught young men to steal.

$10,000 Verdict to Mrs. French

Opening of a sealed verdict in Middlesex Superior court, East Cambridge, today meant $10,000 for Mrs. Peggy Lucille French, 29, of Jersey street, Fenway.

She had sued her father-in-law, Albert H. D. French, real estate and insurance man of Cedar street, Malden, for $50,000. She accused him of alienating the affections of her husband and his son, Albert K. French.

It took the jury just one hour to reach the verdict Friday afternoon. But none of the principals—all of them married twice—were in court today when Judge Joseph Walsh announced the finding.

Mrs. French had testified that her husband left her in 1929—the year after they were married in Toledo, O.—because his father had threatened to cut him off.

She also accused the elder French of making advances to her the first time he met her as his son's bride.

AUTO SHOW TO FETE GOVERNOR

Gala activities will feature Governor's Night and Mayor's Night, tomorrow and Wednesday, respectively, at the Boston Automobile Show in Mechanics Building.

Attendance for the first two days indicate that the show will be one of the most successful yet held.

Lower price machines lead in sales, officials said.

Yesterday's snowstorm failed to hold down attendance.

Reconditioned automobiles in the "used car salon" attracted considerable attention. Accessories, many of them very novel, came in for their share of interest.

Suicide Fails

New York, Jan. 21—An unidentified man plunged 135 feet from Manhattan bridge into the icy East River and was not killed.

In a serious condition, he was rescued by Samuel Stein, who on seeing him fall dived into the river.

Legion Opens Drive on School Reds

A drive against red radical activities in schools, colleges and churches was launched by the American Legion today.

The Americanization Committee of the Legion, made up of members of every post in the state, will investigate conditions throughout the Commonwealth.

State Commander Jeremiah H. Twomey declared that speakers are trying to influence the youth of the state to refuse to serve the nation in time of war. He also stated that radical literature to this effect is being distributed among the young people.

Twomey also said that the committee would investigate a reported plot to abolish the police radical squad because of its interference with Communist activity here.

B. U. Elects Girl

Bertha M. Phillips of Dorchester, lone girl to win a post in the Boston University school of medicine class elections, was elected secretary-treasurer of the freshman class.

JIM ROOSEVELT Recovers

James Roosevelt, son of the President, was looking forward today to his early release from the New England Baptist hospital, where he underwent treatment for colitis. His condition was considered very good. He should be able to go home in a day or two.

RELIEF FUND Now $576,127.18

The Emergency Campaign Fund reached a total of $576,127.18 today in its drive for $4,000,000.

Large donations today included: Miss Amelia Peabody, $3500; Mr. and Mrs. Henry B. Cabot, $2000; Mrs. J. Montgomery Sears, $1800; anonymous, $1600, and Mrs. Henry Forbes Bigelow, $1000.

TROLLEY BURNS Short Circuit Blamed

A short circuit in a Rowes Wharf-bound Boston Elevated street railway car, which had stopped in front of the South Station on Summer street, at 6:30 a. m. today, caused a fire which burned through the main aisle of the car doing $50 damage.

"The Dirt"

O. O. McINTYRE
NEW YORK
Day By Day

Orange Blossom Special, Jan. 21—We are skimming through Virginia, the Carolinas and Georgia toward Florida, sunshine and waving palms. Slipping, so to speak, out of the raccoon benny into shorts.

And until beach crowds have had a peek at me in shorts, they've never been properly convulsed.

I've convulsed both Rivieras, Ostend, Atlantic City and Santa Monica. My last visit to the Everglades was at the boom's peak, when the price of a hotel room for the night sounded like a phone number.

For a winter, I lived in a sort of chrystalized tent on a tag end of Miami Beach.

A year later you could buy that house and lot for half the season's rent and likely get a Shetland to boot.

Gene Tunney in snowy plus fours used to drop by to wonder if Jack Dempsey would accept his challenge. That year I met Ed Howe, a journalistic idol, and formed an enduring friendship.

Many figures of that irresponsible gay winter I saw daily have gone to a better world—Will Hogg, Kin Hubbard, John McE. Bowman, Joe Schenck, Wilton Mizner and Flo Ziegfeld.

And Florida, hurricane struck and economically blighted, has passed the corona of eclipse to shine effulgently again.

Ripple of Contrasts

The panorama from a train window is an unending ripple of contrasts. A stark tree against a lonely sky. Gray holes velvetted with dead moss. The sudden sprout of a town. A bright red barn with a liver pill ad.

Ruminating cows in disdainful gaze and a scampering colt. The swamp glow from a hobo camp. Overhead a darting mail plane. Rolling farms. A lazy stream and a chuckling waterfall.

My train reading is always somehow niched in between issues of periodicals I enjoy. So at terminal newsstands I squander for outlandish literature—cultish brochures, blood and thunderers and love confessions. Stuff one rarely reads elsewhere.

In the club car was a kindred soul, a tittupy James M. Barrie sort. With no show of finance, he was devouring the curdler: "I Was Condemned to The Chair!"

Incidentally, nowhere save on trains am I assailed by a dissified dungeer for tea and slices of that old-fashioned yellow pound cake.

Get Him Some Day

To travel, the syndicate scribbler must prepare even more than the usual extra copy in advance, a torturing addition to the daily grind. Yet the only way to bridge the gap. I did my dot and before entraining; phoned the syndicate to confirm arrival.

It had not arrived. Nor did it next mail, or next, so I went to the train. In a full blown set of the jitters. It meant I must turn out a week's work before sundown.

Three hours later at Wilmington, Delaware, a messenger handed in a telegram. It read: "Copy arrived O. K." I have stubbornly refused since I launched this quixotic columning adventure to make carbons.

This was my narrowest squeak. Yet it did not make me carbon conscious. But they'll get me some day, pudner!

Scenes for Reflection

There are few rosier scenes for reflection than the vista from a train as day slips slowly away to dusk. Something friendly about the queer whoris that roll up suddenly out of nowhere.

Arabesques that would be vaguely terrifying save from security of a brightly lit coach. They are the stuff of dreams, beauty shadowy terror and tranquility. Scattered lights of an approaching city begin to twinkle and the curlicues of darkness tremble away.

—Romantic, chivalrous Richmond! I think of hoopskirts, swirling capes and eyes behind a fan.

Also—materialist that I am—fried chicken, cream gravy, turnip greens, black-eyed peas and corn pone.

There is the distinguished gentleman, with an empty sleeve, across the aisle. He carries a combination knife and fork in pig skin case.

He smacks of D'Artagnan himself. He has that don't-speak-to-me aloofness of the seas-ned traveler. I have never acquired it.

The minute I take a seat in the Pullman smoker, some mugg selling stoc out of Omaha or something, begins telling me that one, ha, ha, about the gent that wandered into the old maid's room.

And before you know it he's calling me "Mac" and dragging out kodak snapshots of the wife and kiddies.

New Setup

WAR ON GANGS TO BE FORCED BY GOVERNOR

An appropriation of $100,000 for the initiation of a State "crime laboratory" under Attorney General Paul A. Dever will be insisted upon by Governor Curley in his budget recommendations, to be presented to the legislature today or tomorrow.

The governor, determined to war on the gangster and the racketeer, has laid the ground work for complete co-operation between enforcement officers of Massachusetts and the government agencies.

Part of the plan is the transferring of the state detective force from the Department of Safety to the attorney-general's jurisdiction.

It is understood the governor intends to keep the state tax this year to what it is at the present time, around $10,000,000.

This despite the fact that it was discovered that a reported free cash surplus at the end of the November fiscal year was practically a deficit of $1,050,000 instead.

This is declared due to the state carrying as assets $1,700,000 in closed banks, of which the governor said the state would be lucky to get 40 cents on the dollar.

Fewer State Cars

Among various economies planned is a change from the many state owned cars and private cars on public business to the policy of using the drive-it-yourself cars from private firms.

Telephone calls will also come in for a searching scrutiny in an effort to keep bills down.

It is indicated that the governor will recommend that the procedure followed in the last administration of transferring funds from the state highway fund for general revenue be continued for the present to avoid additional burdens on real estate.

He will ask that the sum of $10,000,000 be so transferred this year, it is said.

Among the additional expenses that must be met either through the highway fund or new taxes, are $1,250,000 for restoration of salary cuts of state employes, $1,000,000 for a three-shift working schedule for all state institutions, $500,000 in commodity prices, and $100,000

ZERO SNAP ON WAY FROM WEST

Four dead and scores injured because of the cold and treacherous footing conditions.

And weather which will send the mercury down to zero or lower promised.

The cold weather is promised by tomorrow. A zero wave is moving in from the West. Deaths have been numerous in that section from the cold.

No Food, No Fuel

Shipping has been handicapped from Boston and along the coast because of a heavy fog. Accidents are steadily mounting because of the icy conditions of the sidewalks and roadways.

Joseph B. Cook, 68, and his wife, Mrs. Mabel P. Cook, 63, were found dead from hunger and cold in their home, 4 Chapman place, Charlestown. Cook was seated in a chair. His wife was in bed.

The only food in the house was a half-loaf of bread. There was no fuel.

Thomas H. Griffin, 52, of Franklin street, Medford, was found frozen to death in a coal yard in Riverside avenue, Medford.

Pinochle Game Lasts 39 Years

Why is pinochle like fly-paper?

Because once you take it up, you simply can't let go.

In proof, consider the Baltimore police department where a pinochle game has been going on for the past 39 years. Tie that, bridge fans.

The game, which has long been a favorite with policemen, firemen and ballplayers, is steadily invading Back Bay drawing-rooms and making countless converts of the social register's most rabid bridge-fans.

They like it particularly, they say, because, being a two-handed game, a man and wife can play the game and carry on their point arguments without any fear of it going beyond the transom.

LUCKY!

3 DRAW PRIZES IN SWEEPSTAKES

Two Greater Boston men and a Milburn man learned today that they will have a share each—though a modest one—in a $1,250,000 Luxembourg sweepstakes payoff.

They drew non-starting horses in a race run in Nice, on the French Riviera, yesterday.

O'Brien, a clerk, said today that he wasn't even sure, at first, his ticket was genuine.

"It was offered by a customer," he declared, "so I took achance."

In all, 70 prizes were won by New Jersey, New York, and New England ticket holders. Sums paid will range from $2500 downward.

Biggest wins—$140,000, $70,000 and 35,000 each—went to residents of Europe.

PROWLER INVADES ROOM OF ROXBURY GIRL

Bedroom bandits and pickpockets contributed the greater portion of Boston's petty crime wave over the week-end.

Prowlers also annoyed Mrs. Annie Robinson,' of 106 Crawford street; Mrs. Rose Purilap, of 81 Mora street, Mattapan, and Charles Rosen, at 28 Wyoming street, Roxbury, getting $8 in the latter residence.

CHINA LEADERS Call on Curley

A delegation of Chinese financiers, representatives of the Kwang-Tung, provincial government, called on Governor Curley today.

The group was led by Judge Lee Fong, who discussed with the governor business relations between this country and China.

Others in the group included K. C. Lu, representative of the Mukden Chamber of Commerce, and Dr. T. L. Koo. Dr. William E. Chenery and Dr. J. E. Goodhar and Fran Fitzpatrick of the Chinese Trade Board. The visitors also called on Mayor Mansfield.

Curley Acts to Bar Crowd at His Office

Governor Curley moved today to weed out the big crowds of job seekers and the curious who have been gathering in the outer rooms of the executive suite on Beacon Hill.

When the advance guard arrived at the executive department today, they were met with two large notices on either side of the doors.

The one to the left read:

"No applications for employment will be received at this office. All applications must be filed at Room No. 364, State House."

The notice at the right gave the weekly schedule of the governor, as follows: Monday, legislature; Tuesday, appointments; Wednesday, governor's council; Thursday, department officials; Friday, committees; Saturday, executive business.

100 FLEE FIRE In Cambridge

Heavy smoke today drove more than 100 tenants out of a Cambridge apartment building. Caused by an overheated oil heater, the fire was confined to the basement of the John Alden apartments at 285 Harvard street.

It broke out before most of the tenants were out of bed. Some fled in the ice-coated street only partially dressed. However, they were able to return almost at once.

Firemen estimated the damage at less than $500.

RELIEF PROJECTS Questionnaire Out

Colonel T. B. Parker, federal relief works administration engineer for Massachusetts today sent questionnaires to mayors and selectmen that he may determine what projects are available for inclusion in the $4,000,000,000 federal relief work program.

Seeks Rate Cut

A reduction in the gas and electric light rates in this state will be asked by Governor Curley at a conference in his office in the State House, Thursday, he announced today. Public utilities representa'ves will sit in.

CRIPPLE SAVED AT FIRE IN SOUTH END

Picture on Page 8

Two firemen were injured, a cripple was carried to safety and a dozen other residents were driven to the slushy streets today during a two-alarm fire in the five-story brick building at 1300 Washington street, South End.

Joseph Flynn and David Harrison, both of Engine 22, were nearly knocked off a ladder when a door, ripped from a bulkhead on the roof, was thrown into the rear yard by brother firemen.

Frank Godsoe, 64, who is compelled to use crutches, was carried down over the smoke-filled stairway by firemen.

The fire caused damage estimated by Fire Chief Thomas McDonough at $5,000.

The first and second floors of the building are occupied by the Trimount Coin Machine Company, and the three upper floors by families.

LABEL PIRATES New Liquor Peril

Bootleggers are counterfeiting labels of widely advertised brands of liquor to dupe the public.

That warning was sounded today by R. E. Goes, divisional sales manager of the Seagram Distillers Corporation. It is coming liquor buyers thousands of dollars, he said.

Closer relation between manufacturer and consumer will eliminate the evil, he said, adding:

"The Seagram Company would willingly put its entire selling organization in New England at the disposal of any federal or state law enforcement agency in the interest of driving false whiskey and illegitimate dealers out of the business."

CLARK IS FACING CHAIR IN KILLING

"Since I came up here to New York, I have been calling upon this young lady."

Prior to his arraignment in court, Clark had been subjected to a grilling by Deputy District Attorney William O'Rourke.

O'Rourke wants to know how the bald, bespectacled Bostonian became involved with a gang of youthful desperadoes, who brought their short careers in crime to a finish with the murder of Patrolman James M. F. Killion of the New York police. Killion was cut down by a stream of bullets as he tried to prevent the gang's escape from a Fifth avenue shop holdup.

The four occupy cells in the Tombs a short distance from that of Clark, and today they too were arraigned before the bar.

With their faces bruised and battered after a bit of rough handling by police, the four youths heard themselves charged with murder and then the case was continued until Thursday.

Meanwhile, the case of the four was also presented today to the grand jury, police seking a murder indictment.

At the address they gave to police as home, officials found Clark packing baggage. He told them that he was "housekeeper" for the boys. It was decided to hold him when loot from several holdups was found in the apartment.

Police contend that Clark was not merely a "housekeeper," but the brains and "finger man" of a desperate gang. They base their claim on the story of Angelo Angelini, who revealed that they had participated in 40 holdups in New York. Their loot, he said, would reach $10,000. He contended, according to police, that Clark was the "finger" man in at least three jobs. He said:

"Clark went down to the Union Coal Company and looked the place over for us. He said it looked good. We went down there but there was a special officer on duty and we thought it was too hot. He would finger the spots, give us the layout and we would take care of them."

"You're a liar, Angelini, why don't you give the guy a break? He has been pretty decent with us. What are you putting him in for?"

Meanwhile in a downtown hotel police were guarding an unidentified girl who they intimated was the sweetheart of one of the members of the gang. She was not under arrest but held merely for questioning on the possibility that she may be able to throw some light on the gang's activities.

A. Angelini Thomas Rooney

Police would not reveal her name but declared that they were looking for another girl also friendly with one of the youths.

On the possibility that two of four alleged policemen slayers held in New York may know something about the murder of John J. Horan of Massachusetts avene, South End, Boston police asked today that the pair be questioned.

The request was sent to New York authorities and to Detectives Arthur Tiernan and John Connell of the Boston department, who are now in New York investigating thefts of truckloads of cigarettes and leather here.

Police Superintendent Martin H. King and Chief of Detectives Stephen J. Flaherty requested that Ray K. Orley, 20, and Raymond H. Newman, 21, be questioned as to their activities in Boston from November, 1932, to January, 1933, or at any other time.

Orley and Newman are declared to have been in Boston at least once with Nelson B. Clark, now held in New York as an alleged receiver of goods stolen by the four youths during a career climaxed with the slaying of a policeman on Friday.

At her home, 124 Cedar street, Malden, Mrs. Bartlett said today:

"Yes, my husband was almost ruined through those investments. He lost almost half a million dollars.

"But we forgot Clark long ago. We just decided to take our losses and make the best of it.

"I never met the man, and I certainly don't want to."

Her husband, she said, was too sick to be informed of the affair.

RUM STORIES WIN DIVORCE PLEAS

A Hingham fire lieutenant, former postmaster in that town, charged his wife had clandestine meetings with other men, and with heavy drinking.

The three obtained divorces in probate court here today.

Mrs. Grace Held, of Marshfield, sought a divorce from Paul A. Held. She said they went to a party New Yeor's night in 1934.

When it was time to go home, she testified, she found her husband with the hostess. Both were intoxicated, she said.

She had to run a beer garden and bring up five children while her husband remained drunk and under the influence of narcotics, for five years, Mrs. Catherine DeCosta, of Green street, testified.

She was granted a divorce on grounds of intoxication.

George F. Wason of Main street, Hingham, former postmaster of that town, now a lieutenant in the fire department there, secured an uncontested divorce against his wife, Mrs. Mary G. Wason.

WORKERS FLEE Fire in North End

Twenty employes of the Chesterfield Company, Inc., furniture manufacturers, were forced to flee the building at 28-32 Washington street, north, today, when fire broke out in a finishing room on the fourth floor.

Railway Parley

A conference of representatives of the Boston Elevated, Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway, Boston Revere Beach & Lynn Railroad was called by Governor Curley for Thursday.

An agreement will be sought whereby the railroads shall designate a point of passenger interchange in East Boston.

Court Delays Flayed In C. of C. Probe Report

Massachusetts courts are handicapped because of legislative regulations and are "cumbersome and antiquated," a report by the Boston Chamber of Commerce committee on judicial procedure, declared today.

The report, which makes many recommendations for speeding up operation of the courts, covers an investigation of 14 months.

The committee heard judges, lawyers, public officials and laymen.

Pointing out that at the end of the last court year 52,535 civil jury cases were awaiting trial in Massachusetts Superior Court, the committee declared that "the average delay between the bringing of a civil jury suit and the date of its trial now is nearly four years."

The report declares:

"Justice to be certain must be swift. When recollections become hazy and witnesses disappear, trials tend to become mere competitions in imagination. A man with limited means is frequently forced to settle his case.

"On the whole, the committee finds that the judicial system of Massachusetts is fundamentally sound.

"It believes that a judiciary constituted by appointment rather than by popular election can provide judges of far higher character and caliber."

$50,000 ASKED for Everett ERA

Mayor James A. Roche of Everett today called a special meeting of the board of alderman for tonight.

He will submit a $50,000 loan order to keep ERA workers employed. The matter also will submit a list of reappointments of city officials.

The $50,000 loan, if approved, will be used for the purchase of material for ERA projects.

KNOCK OUT COLDS IN FIRST ROUND

Give Colds No Chance to Wear You Down and Put You on Your Back!

Don't dally with a cold! It may end seriously—in the form of flu or pneumonia.

A cold also calls for internal treatment, for a cold is an internal infection.

Make Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine your treatment and you have hit a cold a body blow.

Bromo Quinine is effective because it is a cold tablet made expressly for the treatment of colds and nothing else. It routs colds quickly because it is internal treatment, fourfold in effect.

First, it opens the bowels, an advisable step in treating a cold. Second, it checks the infection in the system, a vital measure.

Third, it relieves the headache and fever.

In 24 hours, if taken promptly, Bromo Quinine will have your cold licked.

Bromo Quinine contains nothing harmful and is safe to take. When you ask for it, insist upon getting what you ask for. The few pennies cost may save you a lot of worry and money.

HOLLAND PROMISE "The Drunkard" For Local Stage

By GEORGE HOLLAND

Harry Bannister plunged into New York theatrical producing a year ago because he believed his identity as an individual was being lost as the "husband of Ann Harding."

The former actor presented "The Drunkard," old time melodrama, and such hyplays as hissing and beer drinking were permitted and encouraged

Mr. Bannister's "The Drunkard" ran for months in a converted New York theater, and the venture was very profitable Now Mr Bannister has an eye toward Boston.

Lester Bryant arrived in town today to select a site for the presentation here of "The Drunkard."

Mr. Bryant is the one-time lessee of the Elitch Theater in New York, and of late he has been busy in Chicago producing plays which have featured his wife, Edna Hibbard

Messrs Bannister and Bryant have joining forces as co-producers. If Mr Bryant finds the right theater for "The Drunkard" he will position for a license to sell beer while "The Drunkard" is being played before an audience

Sybil Thorndike, star of John Van Druten's comedy, "The Distaff Side," which will come to the Shubert Theater February 4 received the order of Dame Commander of the British Empire in 1931

George Gerhard, former motion picture editor of the New York Evening World, has been named manager of advertising and publicity for Cosmopolitan Productions, succeeding the late Theodore Dreiser.

Cosmopolitan's first Boston release through Warner Brothers is "Devil Dogs of the Air," with James Cagney and Pat O'Brien.

Thomas Spry, Warner Brothers distribution chief locally, left yesterday for Florida. He will return for premiere of "Devil Dogs of the Air" at the Metropolitan Theater February 8

'Point Valaine," recently at the Colonial, was received coolly by the New York critics. But Alfred Lunt, Lynne Fontanne and Osgood Perkins, as coasters in the play, and the reputation of Noel Coward as author, is a galaxy of names that has assured good receipts there as here.

"Gold Eagle Guy," and "The Farmer Takes a Wife," which both played here in November, will close their New York engagements next Saturday night.

"Barbary Coast" for Screen

Miriam Hopkins Samuel Goldwyn's Choice for Lead

Waterfront Film Certainly Will Be Kept Pure

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor Universal Service
Copyright, 1935, by Universal Service

Los Angeles, Jan. 21—Well, here is a surprise! Samuel Goldwyn has taken Herbert Asbury's "Barbary Coast" from the shelf and chosen it for Miriam Hopkins' first Goldwyn drama.

It goes into production as soon as Miss Hopkins finishes "Becky Sharp." And Sam has called in Oliver H. P. Garrett to write a new treatment to combine with previous adaptations for this colorful drama of San Francisco's historical waterfront.

"Barbary Coast" was relegated to the Limbo of forgotten things when censorial interference cramped Sam's style and made him feel he couldn't picture the real Barbary Coast with such restrictions. Now he has a plan. He will only use the Asbury book for historical data, building his own drama and keeping it pure

Why is it Louella O. Parsons that May Robson always has to travel away from her home studio, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, to get the breaks" May is the grandest trouper in Hollywood and the best screen actress of any woman her age, but it seems that all her big roles are played at either Columbia or RKO.

Her next picture is another RKO drama, "Strangers All," in which Preston Foster will be featured opposite her. It's a Cliff Reed production, and is based on the story by Marie Bercovici, and, most important, it gives the most famous great-grandmother in the world a chance to play a splendid mother role.

What "It Happened One Night" did for Clark Gable "The Whole Town's Talking" will do for Edward G Robinson. Eddie, for the first time in his life, becomes a comedian and, in a dual role, is also another 'Little Caesar." Chalk up another Columbia success in this exciting, amusing, gangster picture in which, thanks be, the gangster gets his just dues. Meanwhile it's interesting to know that Harry Sauber, who wrote "Happiness Ahead" and the screen play, "Twenty Million Sweethearts" for Dick Powell, is writing an original for Warners to star Eddie and calling it "Anthony the Third"

Chatter in Hollywood

Colleen Moore's pleasant question to Ketti Gallian asking the name of her next picture brought forth an amazing reply. "I do 'The Pimply Moon'," said Ketti naively. The shouts of laughter from the other guests at Eddie Hillman's dinner party surprised Ketti, who looked pained at such unexpected levity. What Ketti meant to say was that her next Fox picture is "Under the Pampas Moon."

LUCILE GLEASON investing in a snappy wardrobe to visit her son, RUSSELL, in New York, they'll spend it their mutual birthday, February 6, together BENNY RUBIN laughing so loud at his own jokes that his guests had to be polite and laugh too. RONNY SIMON, W. K. New York merchant, arrives from New York to visit GLENDA FARRELL next week; you guess the answer. JANET BEECHER hurrying home to nurse her small son, who has a cold. FRANK BORZAGE out of the hospital and raring to go. The PHIL BERGS (LEILA HYAMS) bridging and buffeting their friends Wednesday night. ROSIE DOLLY and IRVING NETCHER packing their household belongings preparatory to leaving for the East. HELEN HAYES, a constant visitor at the Ballet Russe, entertaining NORMA SHEARER, IRVING THALBERG, DOROTHY PARKER, ALAN CAMPBELL, MAXWELL ANDERSON, ANITA LOOS, and JOHN EMERSON with dinner and a theater party. RALPH BELLAMY picking himself a few winners at the Santa Anita track; CHICK CHANDLER displaying a gold nugget sent him from his own claim on the Mojave desert. That's all today. See you tomorrow!

Schnabel

Pianist Inspires Audience

By ANN AMES

A large audience braved the inclement weather yesterday to hear Artur Schnabel, illustrious Austrian pianist, in a program of sonatas by Beethoven, Mozart and Schubert.

[illegible] son of the Schubert and the Mozart bewildered the [illegible] musical expression here [illegible] by Beethoven recent years confined himself to Beethoven and Brahms whose piano music he has played with great elo[illegible]tion.

To the striking opening movement with its simple theme suggestive of the "Adeste Fidelis" the calm beauty of the Andante and the bright exuberance of the Scherzo Mr Schnabel brought that pianistic precision and clarity of tone for which he has long been famous.

The famous Schnabel technique, which has influenced countless thousands of pianists, was most brilliantly revealed in the two Beethoven Sonatas the F minor, with its Presto taken at dizzy pace and the C minor with its seemingly endless trills of the [illegible] Aria[illegible]

Spalding

Violinist Covers Wide Field

Albert Spalding, recently soloist with the Boston Symphony, returned to the platform at Jordan Hall in a violin program on Saturday afternoon.

Always the impeccable artist, Mr. Spalding chose a program of wide appeal, and one without the usual recourse to the usually inevitable concerto.

He played a Beethoven Romance, Martini's Allegro, the Bach E major Sonata, flawlessly performed, the long Schubert C major Fantasy, displaying his superb tone resources and brilliant technique, Ravel's charming "Tzigane," which he was forced to repeat for his enthusiastic hearers, Lalo's "Guitarre," a Chopin Waltz and the 24th Paganini Caprice

Mr. Spalding's modest yet commanding presence, his unaffected manner, are charms which he adds to his virtuosity.

Mr. Andre Benoist provided the excellent accompaniments.

"You Can't Delay the Mails!"

By FLOYD GIBBONS

FLOYD GIBBONS

HELLO EVERYBODY:

Did you ever take a good close look at the post office, boys and girls? I mean the big main office on 8th ave., down around 33rd st. Up over the door there is a carved inscription—something about neither wind nor storm, nor sore feet nor chilblains being able to delay the letter carrier in his appointed rounds You've seen the slogan, somewhere or other it's on most of the post offices in the country.

It is the motto of the Postal Service, and if you want to make the mailman good and sore, just you insinuate that if the world blew up tomorrow and went flying off into space in a million little pieces he wouldn't go right on delivering mail just as if nothing had ever happened.

Now that slogan of the Post Office Department doesn't say a thing about bandits. I don't suppose anybody thought of bandits when they were cooking up that motto. But if you ask Charlie Heyler—Charles H. Heyler, of 32-86 35th st., Long Island City, N. Y.—he will tell you that bandits don't stop the mailman, either. Not when he's got a truck load of parcel post packages to deliver. And Charlie could tell you a story about that, that would knock your eye out.

Charlie is a parcel post chauffeur, working out of the Tremont station, in the Bronx. He and his partner, Herman Gross, are kept pretty busy most of the time, and it isn't often that they let anything even so much as interrupt them in those "appointed rounds" that the motto talks about. But one day, back in May, 1930, they ran across something that made them take time out for darned near ten whole minutes.

Herman Gross was driving the car this trip. Charlie was on the seat beside him. It was about 11 o'clock in the forenoon, and they were driving west on 178th st., the Bronx—stepping on the gas to get the morning's work cleaned up before lunch. As they reached Monterey ave., things began to happen. Three men came running around the corner into 178th st., and behind those men came a large crowd of people shouting "Stop thief! Holdup!"

Now, there isn't anything in the Post Office motto about fleeing bandits, and I don't suppose Herman Gross stopped to think about the motto, anyway. He just jammed his foot down on the accelerator pedal and started after those three running men.

The three fugitives separated as they turned into Third ave. Herman overtook one of them half-way down the block, and Charlie Heyler jumped down onto the sidewalk. He didn't know what he was going to to when he got there—didn't stop to figure out what might happen if the stick-up man should have a gun. He just jumped out of the truck and made for the bandit.

The bandit stopped, backed up against an ash can and turned, snarling, to face Charlie. Charlie was measuring the distance for a leap when he saw something that made him change his mind. The bandit's hand was dropping into his coat pocket—coming out with a revolver. For the first time then, Charlie realized his danger. He was unarmed—helpless—facing a desperate man with a murderous weapon.

The gun was up now—pointed full at Charlie. In another split second its deadly lead charges would be biting into Charlie's body. Charlie thought fast—took a long, desperate chance. He drew his arm back to his hip pocket as if reaching for a gun of his own. At the same time he yelled "Don't fire!" leaped at the crook and grabbed him around the waist, pinning his arms to his sides with a grip he had earned in the army.

The bandit couldn't take it. He cringed at Charlie's leap, wriggled a bit—then he dropped his revolver in the ash can behind him and gave up the struggle. Charlie clung to his prisoner, but he didn't have to cling very long The radio reports had gone out that there was a stick-up at 178th st. and Monterey, and there were cops swarming all over the neighborhood. One of them—Detective Baer, of the Bathgate ave. station, came along and found Charlie hanging on to his prisoner. He took the bandit off Charlie's hands.

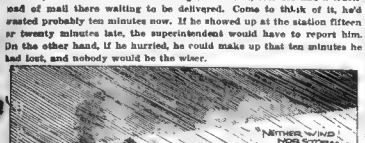
Charlie wasn't at all sorry to get rid of him, either. As a matter of fact, he began wondering right then why he had ever wanted that crook in the first place. He picked the revolver out of the ash can where the bandit had dropped it—found that it was fully loaded, and decided that he'd been a darned, hair-brained fool. He figured he wouldn't say anything to his wife about it. She'd probably give him the very devil for scrapping with strange holdup men on the street without a gun.

Yes, and there was another thing to think of, too. He had a truck-load of mail there waiting to be delivered. Come to think of it, he'd wasted probably ten minutes now. If he showed up at the station fifteen or twenty minutes late, the superintendent would have to report him. On the other hand, if he hurried, he could make up that ten minutes he had lost, and nobody would be the wiser.



So Charlie turned to Detective Baer, "So long, buddy," he said, "I've got to be going." And he climbed back into the mail truck and sat down beside Herman Gross.

There are just a few more details to clean up now, and Charlies' story will be told. The gunman he caught was sentenced to from three and a half to seven years in Sing Sing. Charlie made up the ten minutes he lost and got back to the Tremont station on time. The Post Office authorities commended Charlie for his bravery, and didn't say a word about delaying the mails. And Charlie's wife didn't give him the devil for fighting in the streets with stick-up men. She just smiled.

And the only other detail I can think of right now is those yarns you boys and girls are sending in. They are rolling in by the hundred, and I've got some lulus for next week. But I want more. Send yours in now. And tomorrow, if you're good and eat your spinach, I'll tell you about another adventure. It's from Cecil C. Smith of West Bridgewater.

AUSTEN LAKE on National League Throws A Smoke Screen

SOOOcccc, JUDGE EMIL FUCHS and C. F. Adams were only playing leap-frog, eh? Just getting themselves a few stomach laughs in this dull sports season. So, this Braves Field mutiny was merely the prank of two little boys who will never grow up. All in the innocent spirit of a mardi gras carnival.

Austen Lake

Well, if so, then the Federal agents have been shooting public-enemies with confetti and colored pop-corn, the Hauptmann trial at Flemington, N. J., is a fudge party, and Japan is just a jolly international Santa Claus.

Because, you can bet all the T's in titter that Fuchs and Adams were as coldly serious as a couple of penetentiary electricians and that the National League daddies were as panicky as missionaries at a cannibal's barbecue.

National League's Squirrel-Cage

DON'T BE MISLED BY THE fact that the Braves' conspiracy has suddenly slipped from the front page to a position near the shipping news.

The blanket of silence that has been drawn over the scene is merely a screen behind which the National League is scutting around in a squirrel-cage delirium to find a sugar daddy with a basket full of dollars to buy out Fuchs and Adams.

That prospect, and that alone, would induce Fuchs to come back to Boston from the New York meeting with a wide tooth-brush smile, like a pussy cat who has just gulped a mouse.

If Fuchs and Adams operate the Braves when the training season starts next month, it will be with the distinct understanding that they are hanging on until the League can tease a financial angel to come winging down out of heaven and snatch them up. If possible, this will be brought off before February 5.

Fractional Truths

YOU DON'T THINK, DO YOU, that the National League owners, who are gents with sensitive rumps, would seal themselves up for 13 hours if Fuchs and Adams were only foolin' and were willing to settle for a ham sandwich and a malted milk?

I am not so moral personally that I would put pants on a horse, but there is nothing that warms the cockles of my indignation so much as a malicious misrepresentation of sporting facts. The Braves did this by spreading half-truths and allowing them to live as a whole lie.

They portrayed themselves as shivering, homeless orphans, begging a crust and a spot of warmth. They were dispossessed by the dogs. Their lease was torn up by an Irate landlord.

Yet, miraculously, a day later, their lease was still in effect and they had agreed to shoo away the dogs.

Meanwhile, the application of the Boston Kennel Club for Braves Field as a dog-racing site is still alive in the hands of the State Race Commission, and will probably remain alive as a handy threat until the League carries out its secret covenant with Fuchs, Adams et al.

Page Judge Landis

THIS SMACKS OF FAKE and the same spiritual subievels on which baseball pretends to believe that dog racing dwells. As one who has never believed that the socially prominent sportsmen, who boast a heart as big as a football that any baby could rend apart, are any different spiritually than the frowsy swipe behind the barn.

Given the incentive, the exclusive sportsman sometimes will soak you up quicker than the coarse vulgar people who foul up the horse and dog tracks.

I don't know whether Judge K. M. Landis has been standing in the wings of this scene, merely waiting for his cue to put on his act of shaking the white plume while roaring about the game's sacred integrity. But if he has, this is his chance to snatch somebody bald-headed.

When Heydler's Face Was Red

WELL IT IS A FEW years now since I learned by accident that President John A. Heydler was in Boston on a secret mission and, at the moment, holding conference in C. F. Adams' office without the knowledge of Judge Fuchs.

Shh-h-h-h

So I skipped down, and waited outside the conference chamber, where, due to the deafness of Bruce Wetmore, a Braves stockholder, and the necessity of his mates to shriek, I heard the whole conversation through the door.

It was a parade of internecine scandal that would have made big, black headlines in 120 point wooden type.

So, finally, when the meeting dispersed and I went in to greet Heydler, I asked, "Why are you in Boston?"

"O just a little family call," said he expansively. "Just a social sitdown. I was just saying that I believe in cheap bleacher seats to let the public . . ."

"Well," I said, as an unwitting evesdropper, "I might as well tell you that I was sitting outside the door and heard the whole thing."

"My Gawd," he wailed, "You can't print that."

And I never did print it, juicy and sensational as it was. I mention it now to remind the gentlemen concerned that I kept faith in a ticklish matter, the which, I feel, they have not repaid lately in fair measure.

But then I may merely be impatient now, because in having called the turn on the Braves' faked predicament, I cannot get the boys to admit that I was right, a thing that I feel they owe me.

I have enjoyed the plot and its execution and only ask that the boys sportingly consent to be "it" when tagged.

BOOTBLACK KING DURING POLICE STRIKE HERE

KIDS HAD TO FIGHT TO MAKE LIVING

SAMMY LICKS SOLDIER BULLY

By Sammy Fuller
(As Told to Sam Cohen)

I have defeated three world champions in my boxing career—Tony Canzoneri, Jackie "Kid" Berg and Benny Bass—but the biggest thrill I ever got in winning a fight was long before I ever dreamed I could battle my way to the top in the fight game.

This episode, which is still vivid in my mind, occurred quite a few years back. In fact it happened during the Boston police strike when I was still a bootblack in the North End.

The National Guard had been called out to maintain order. The guardsmen were quartered at Faneuil Hall in the market district. They had to be immaculate in dress, and shining shoes was a very profitable occupation if one could get inside the hall.

There were at least 20 bootblacks trying to crash, and it is needless to say that we had to fight our way to get in a shine here and there on the outside.

$75 A WEEK

I guess I was pretty good with my dukes at that time, too, for I won every one of my fights. Soon the guards were so fond of me they let me sneak inside. I cleaned up and made as high as $75 a week while it lasted.

I was about ten years old at the time and I got along very well with the soldiers, with the exception of one member of the squad. He was always picking on me. But as much as I disliked him it was love compared with the feelings his fellow guardsmen had for him.

I always trusted the soldiers until pay day, and they never failed to pay me, with the exception of this one guard. It was'nt that he couldn't pay. He just didn't want to.

The guards knew I could scrap and kept heating me up against the soldier. Finally they took a pool and collected about $10. They offered it to me to take a punch at the "bully."

FELLS BULLY

Ten dollars at that time to me was a fortune, even though I was doing well shining shoes. I took the money and went looking for the soldier.

It must be a natural instinct with me, for I recall as if it was yesterday, hitting the bully with a left hook.

I had to leap in the air to do it, but I guess it landed perfectly because the soldier went down. Or maybe he was taken by surprise. But anyway he was slow in getting up and when he did he walked away with his head hanging down.

I admit I was a little scared, because he was bigger and much older than I and I was certainly relieved when he refused to fight back.

Was I a hero?

The soldiers paraded me around on their shoulders, and from then on no other bootblack could get within 20 yards of Faneuil Hall without my permission.

(Tomorrow—Four knyoes in one night.)

Shine or Fight?

DOGS MUZZLED FOR A WHILE

LET'S GO BACK TO BASEBALL

CRONIN WANTS SOX ON HAND EARLY

By Joe Cashman

With the dogs muzzled for at least two weeks, baseball in Boston may now return to winter normalcy.

The hounds brought all other business at Braves' headquarters to a standstill, and the Red Sox wisely remained in the background while all the barking was going on.

The Tribal tangle was different, to say the least, but the fans have become fed up on it and will welcome some diamond data for a change.

The wisest course for the Braves to pursue during the remainder of the off-season would be to keep the Hot Stove League well supplied with fuel.

And though they were in no way responsible for the free publicity given to dog racing, it might also be to the Red Sox advantage to help the public forget that the canines will be racing in this neck of the woods in a few months.

NO GROVE CUT

Judge Fuchs didn't remain in town long after returning from the New York meeting that gave him a new lease of life as boss of the Warriors, but before leaving for some unannounced destination, he promised some live Tribal news in a few days.

The judge has made it a rule never to say anything about contracts. When the documents are sent out and when they are returned signed or otherwise, has always been kept secret. This would be an ideal time for him to change that custom.

Word comes out of Baltimore that Max Bishop, veteran second-sacker, is satisfied—which wouldn't have if there were any official objection—and the Sox general manager himself is talking on the subject.

Eddie reports all contracts will be mailed before mid-week and admits that two players have been given a salary cut. He adds that Grove isn't one of the two.

Originally scheduled to report at Sarasota on March 5, the Sox batterymen will probably be ordered to camp a few days earlier.

Manager Joe Cronin hasn't definitely decided on the new date as yet, but he has informed the home office that he feels the original date a little too late.

Among the mementoes brought back by Connie Mack from his baseball barnstorming trip through the Orient was this picture made in Japan. It shows him in a dugout of a Tokio diamond autographing baseballs for two Nipponese players. The unusual part of the picture, according to Mack, is that it was the first time he was ever photographed in spectacles.

CASEY BOWDOIN COACH?

Brunswick, Me., Jan. 21—Bowdoin College campus circles were agog with reports today that Eddie Casey, formerly of Harvard, would succeed Charles W. Bowser here as football coach.

Gridiron mentor of the Polar Bears for five years, Bowser relinquished the reins by resignation. Kenneth C. M. Sills, president of the college, announced after a meeting of the executive committee of the governing board.

Eddie Casey

Bowser was holding a contract which still had two years to run at the time of his resignation, but had been under attack by alumni and student body largely, because his team failed to win a game all last season.

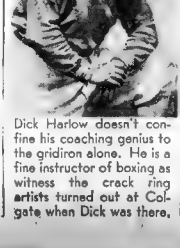
A New Side to Dick Harlow

New Harvard Coach Packs Punch in Development of Ring Aces

Builder



Dick Harlow doesn't confine his coaching genius to the gridiron alone. He is a fine instructor of boxing as witness the crack ring artists turned out at Colgate when Dick was there.

By Lewis Burton

New York, Jan. 20—The conversation had to do with Dick Harlow, the brand new football style-maker of Harvard University. Bill Reid, who was Colgate's graduate manager when Harlow was there and still houds the job, remarked in his man-sized voice:

"There's a story about Harlow that is being overlooked.

"Say, I'll tell you what to do. Make the prediction that Harvard will have some great boxing teams in the next few years. I consider Harlow one of the best boxing coaches in the country, and I'll tell you why."

One day Reid came upon Harlow in evident despair. He craved action, and the only thing he could think of was getting frost-bitten. Fortunately, Reid remembered that Harlow knew something about boxing.

"Say," he said, "I don't know whether we have any boxers up here, but we have some boxing gloves and a big gymnasium. Why don't you organize a boxing team. We can spend a few dollars extra on material if we need it."

The results, demonstrating Harlow's versatility even as a coach, are in Bill Reid's opinion the final proof that Harlow knows how to impart knowledge and ability to athletes, and to develop winners.

At once Colgate came forth with the light-heavyweight and heavyweight champion of the colleges in the person of Clement Neacy. That was 1923. The following year, Colgate's boxing team, led by another inter-collegiate champion—Rae Crowther in the 165-pound division—won four out of five matches, losing only to Navy by a 4-3 score.

A year later, two of Harlow's men reached the intercollegiate semifinals, and in 1926 he developed Fred H. (Lefty) Stanton, who won the intercollegiate 145-pound championship.

So, says Reid:

"The winning of those four titles in four years, starting from scratch, without the sport ever having been conducted at Colgate even on an intramural plan, is ample test of Harlow's coaching ability."

How Do They Do it?

Burlington, Vt., Jan. 21—A schedule of 10 games for the University of Vermont baseball team's annual Southern trip was announced today, opening with Princeton and closing with Navy.

N. U. SIX BATTLES STATE

Raymond Nelson's Northeastern varsity hockey protégés planned another attempt to break into the win column this afternoon at the Arena when they meet the Mass. State icemen.

Despite the fact that the N. U. puck-chasers have dropped four straight contests, Nelson planned to start the same six that was twice beaten by Brown and Boston College.

The Statesmen, who lost to Northeastern last year, have beaten Brown this season.

Baseball And Dogs Don't Mix

By Jack Conway

BASEBALL'S decision to continue its fight against dog racing was not only a wise one, but the only one that could be made if the national pastime wished to retain the prestige it has built up over a period of years.

Even though dog racing has been legalized, it is nevertheless a menace to baseball. It will take patronage from the ball games, and in no way can be a benefit to any ball club over a period of years.

I am not interested in the moral question of whether persons interested in baseball clubs should also have dog track interests. That is their own affair.

One does not have to know a great deal about sports to realize that with a limited population to draw upon, baseball will suffer if dog racing goes over in a large way.

I also find that when people get interested in either horse or dog racing, they have little time for any other sport. They are either trying to pick the winners of coming races or trying to figure out how their selections failed to click.

When I return from a day at the race track, or from an evening at a dog track, it takes me at least 24 hours before I can think of going to a ball game or even playing golf.

FUTURE OF DOGS

PERSONS who have money invested in horse tracks are also tied in with Massachusetts dog tracks, but they tell me they would be happier if dog racing had not been legalized.

They fear dog racing and horse racing will be too much of a drain on Old Jawn Public's pocketbook.

Kentucky and Maryland, which have had horse racing for generations, have also banned the dogs.

Horsemen in those states felt dog racing would injure the revenue at race tracks.

Baseball leaders who have fought the advance of dog racing consider the sport a peril. So do owners of theaters.

A limited number of dog races will furnish the public with a new thrill, but I am glad the sport is not going to be mixed with baseball.

Instead of looking to the dogs for possible revenue, baseball magnates should attend to their clubs. A winning team will make money in face of opposition.

Let us hear more about Wally Berger's home runs and less about yelping hounds.

DANNO'S COLOR

DAN O'MAHONEY has given wrestling the color it needed since Gus Sonnenberg passed out of the big money.

I quite agree with Ed Don George who told Ann Clarke, feature writer on the Boston Sunday Advertiser, that the youthful Irish champion is still quite a way from the top.

O'Mahony has much to learn about the fine points of the game, but he is improving with each start. He was 100 per cent better than Rudy Dusek than he was against Ernie Dusek.

In Europe wrestlers use holds only above the waist, while in this country holds below the waist are also permitted.

Against Rudy Dusek the youthful Irish champion showed he had mastered a leg scissors and turnover body scissors.

O'Mahoney does his best work when tossing punches, and Sharkey sat beside me as Danno licked Rudy Dusek, and he was amazed at the terrific punching power of O'Mahoney.

"O'Mahoney," said Sharkey, "lets his right go right off his shoulder, and he gets everything behind the punch. I think he could knock out the average run of heavyweight hoyers with ease."

RANDOM SHOTS

ONE OF Rudy Dusek's teeth did the damage to his lower lip . . . When he hit the canvas face first with his mouth open, one of his teeth was driven part way through his lower lip . . . Boxers are taught to keep their teeth clinched so as to avoid the kind of injury suffered by Dusek . . . There is also danger of a wrestler or boxer getting his jaw broken if hit while his mouth is open.

Jim Maloney will weigh at least ten pounds more than Max Baer when they clash in a four-round bout at Miami, Fla., on Thursday night . . . Baer weighs 213 pounds, while Shamus is well above 220 . . . Maloney scaled between 194 and 200 pounds for his last fights.

EAGLES Sign New FOE

NO. CAROLINA STATE

By Walter Kiley

A football game between North Carolina State, one of the formidable teams of the South, and Boston College will be announced for the 1936 fall season as soon as the date can be decided.

The contest will be played at University Heights, probably in October. John P. Curley, athletic director at Boston College, and Hartley "Hunk" Anderson, former Notre Dame head coach and present North Carolina chief, completed preliminary details during the recent coaches' convention in New York.

Another new game with Penn State is in the offing. But it is much less likely to go through. The Eagles have already signed to meet Michigan State next fall in Boston and in all probability will play it again in 1936.

Director Curley is finally meeting success in his long efforts to bring outstanding college teams here to face the Eagles. But the main hitch is that Harvard plays all home games in 1936 with the exception of the finale with Yale.

B. C. Enters Four Relays

Jack Ryder, Boston College track coach, will hold the final time trials early this week for his four relay teams which will compete in the annual K. C. meet at the Garden Saturday.

The two-mile relay team has already been determined. It will consist of John Downey, John Powers, Ben Hines and Don McKee.

The other three quartets will be the varsity one mile relay, the varsity Team B one mile relay and the freshman one mile relay.

Five men are bucking for the one mile team. Captain Jugger Joyce is the only sure member of the quartet while Jim O'Leary, Frank Eaton Bill Malone and Frank O'Loughlin will contest for the remaining three berths.

The freshman team probably will be made up of the four who represented it in the Boston Y M C. A. meet last Saturday. They are Art Cox, Eddy Cady, Dick Gill and Johnny King.

Brooklyn Champs Face Trojans

EXCELLED AS COLLEGIANS

TWO AMATEUR TILTS BILLED TONIGHT

By Bob Ahearn

Winners of the first half championship in the American Pro Basketball League, the New York Jewels are in town to combat the Boston Trojans at the Arena this evening. The fray will mark the opening of the second half.

The Jewels are one of the classiest quintets in the game. They first attained fame when they played as a unit for three years at St. John's College, Brooklyn. There they broke all scoring records.

In first half competition, the Trojans failed to win from the Gotham five in their several encounters. Last night at New York, the Jewels pinned a 34 to 21 defeat on the Trojans.

Carl Husta and Frank Shmik new additions to the local five will have their work cut out for them tonight. They are paired against Alex Schuckman and Mac Kinsbruner, two of the leading scorers in the circuit.

In the preliminary game, the Employers Liability quintet takes on the Gulf Refining Co. representatives. Both clubs sport former scholastic stars, adn a lively battle should result.

Two games are listed for the Greater Boston League this evening. The league leading Presentation Club and Bunker Hill A. A. fives play at the Charlestown Army and Navy Y. M. C. A.

Stafford Boosts Bowling

By Ed Cogswell

"With more than 20 years connection with baseball I was firmly convinced that it was the great national game," said Jack Stafford, president of the New England Bowling Association this morning, "but I was wrong in my estimates, or perhaps bowling has lately jumped into great public favor.

"In my travels I now can see that bowling far outstrips the only baseball but, in my opinion, all the rest of sports. Just go in any direction and every city and town is filled with bowling alleys. Not only that but every evening each and all of them are crowded with contestants.

"It is very pleasing, also, to note the number of women taking up the sport. They have their bowling clubs and, besides, numerous leagues are running mixed teams this season. Likely this feature has done a lot in booming the sport."

He began umpiring in 1905 in the N. E. League, where he remained for three years. In 1907-8 he called 'em as he saw them in the American League. Then for three years he held the indicator in the International League.

Back he came then to the N. E. League for two years, and the following couple of years umpired in the Eastern League. During the war he was across in the army in charge of athletic material, being discharged in 1920.

He then opened and ran the Copley square billiard rooms for three years, returning to the Eastern League, where he remained three more years as umpire.

Stafford was a prominent figure as announcer at all athletic events in Greater Boston, in the winter months appearing at the Arena Mechanics Building and Mian Murray's.

For the past seven years he has devoted his time managing the Huntington Club, which has the distinction of having the most bowling alleys on one floor than any other establishment of its kind in the world.

Bruins Drop As Hawks Rake Leafs

CANADIENS TAKE LACING FROM RANGERS

By Bill Grimes

On the three N. H. L. fronts, which were active on the Sabbath, there were as many upsets.

From a local viewpoint, the biggest surprise was the Chicago Blackhawks' 2 to 1 victory over Toronto Maple Leafs, for the victory pushed the Bruins back into second place.

After giving the Bruins a lesson in the art of hockey Saturday, Canadiens proved no match for the Rangers in New York, losing by the wide margin of 7 to 1.

It was the 450th game the Madison Square Garden Horsemen have played in the N. H. L., and possibly the Frenchmen did not want to spoil the celebration.

At any rate, they went down to defeat and ended their three game winning streak, one point short of the third place N. Y. Americans.

In all probability, St. Louis Eagles furnished the biggest upset, when they put the Red Wings over the jumps to the tune of 6 to 1 in Detroit.

The Eagles had been through a tough game with Toronto the previous night, collapsing in the third period.

They were without the services of Scotty Bowman but they played out the string and beat John Ross Roach for four goals in the final period.

There were two no-decision games in the Canadian-American League, Rhode Island Reds and Philadelphia battling to a 5 all draw, and Quebec and New Haven going to a 3 to 3 tie.

Babe Ruth's Future, Santa Anita 'Cap Grip Fandom

By Bill Corum

New York, Jan. 21—Going through our mail after a week in Flemington, we learn that the sport fans are concerned with only two subjects at the moment—Babe Ruth's baseball future and the Santa Anita handicap.

There is nothing further to say about Babe for the time being. There will be in a few weeks, but it can wait.

The Santa Anita Handicap, however, engrosses everybody who loves a horse. In prospect it is the greatest turf event, and one of the greatest sporting events of a decade.

With the race only a month away, it still looks as though this $100,000 stake would turn out to be one of those sports events about which fans constantly conjecture but seldom see.

"How would he have donn with Man O' War?" is the question they ask of every great horse.

STATESMAN

The superhorse, of course, is not going to be in the Santa Anita. But every great American stake horse of the last four years is, by odd chance, on the ground at the Los Angeles course, also Victor Emanuel's Statesman, one of the best which England has to offer at the moment.

You may recall that Statesman finished third in the English Derby a couple of seasons back—as I remember it—behind Hyperion and Derby? I'm not sure. Anyhow, a competent judge who saw both horses race on the other side last year tells me that if Mate has a chance in this race Statesman is a sure winner.

That was how much more highly he rates Mrs. Emanuels' colt than "Brother" Bostwick's picture horse. But he can be wrong, of course. Horse players have been known to be.

Discussing the race with Louis Satterman, a keen student of racing and all other sports, I discovered he means to cling to Equipoise until the brown colt's brown Whitney cap fades in the stretch—if it does.

His argument is that Ekkie's famed burst of speed will carry him to the top when Workman makes his run, and keep him there long enough to stave off the closing bids of Cavalcade, Twenty Grand and the other Hatchers.

ASK CLEM

This is a sound argument (sounder than most of the horses training for the race), and it may be the right answer. I'll have to look up Ol' Manse Clem McCarthy before we start westward ho! and see what he thinks.

Just the same, I'm putting $5 on Twenty Grand against Satterman's $5 on Equipoise, horse for horse, both to start. Now where will we spend the money?

BULL MARTIN EVEN CHOICE TO PIN NUMA

Bull Martin, in a raging frenzy because he hasn't wrestled at the Arena for more than two months, will be an even-money choice to whip Leo Numa this evening when they clash at the old Boston Garden-Bolsolph street coliseum Wednesday night in the feature of Alex MacLean's star-spangled show.

The bad Bull is threatening to tear the former Black Secret into small pieces, and nearly does.

The handsome Numa, termed the Clark Gable of the grapplers, will run into plenty of stout opposition, however, if the Bull is in their two out of three falls.

Numa's shooting for another bout with George blasting assault allegations with his torturous "body-to-hold, but his hopes may be dashed should the Bull contest with a few vicious eight-handed pulleys.

The Red Raiders will seek his sixth straight victory when he meets George Saunders in one special bout with the crafty veteran Farmer George McLeod, facing Jack Wallis in another.

Giants Win, 21-0, On Coast

25,000 LOOK ON AS PROS TRIP ALL-STARS

Kezar Stadium, San Francisco, Jan. 21—Scoring twice in the first quarter and again in the third, the New York Giants annihilated the Pacific Coast All-Americans, 21 to 0, in the fifth annual Knights of Columbus charity football game before 25,000 chilled souls here.

The Giants almost completely choked the double wing back attack of the Ernie Nevers' continent, and in their three touchdown drives showed tremendous power and passing versatility.

The game was ten minutes old when Ed Danowski passed three yards to "Red" Flaherty in the end zone to terminate a march of 33 yards in 13 plays. Ken Strong kicked the extra point.

Mikkelsen's point score was 181.20.

PRIEST Fights League COURT

FR. COUGHLIN IN RADIO PLEA

Detroit, Jan. 21—The Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, radio priest, is on record today as bitterly opposing entrance of the United States into the League Court.

Asserting that more than two-thirds of the U. S. Senate "are ready to sign on the dotted line and cast our American destiny into the iron-handed of European dictators and European nationalism of nations bound to us in debt," he called on his vast audience yesterday to register emphatic protests before it was too late.

He said:

"The United States Senate is debating whether to barter our sovereignty as a free and independent nation for the rule of a super-state that will govern not only our external affairs, but perchance our internal affairs as well."

Through the League provision every nation has a right to appeal directly to the World Court, the Japanese in California or the Communists in New York could appeal over the heads of American courts for redress at Geneva, Father Coughlin declared. He went on:

"If we enter the World Court we are subscribing in principle to the theory that law is a court higher than our United States Supreme Court.

"The League of Nations would tell the Supreme Court and the Senate of the United States to go to the devil, and cast its sovereignty into the waste basket."

Branding the League of Nations as a "war-breeder," the priest pointed out that the United States the outstanding non-member, was the only nation which had exposed the munitions war racket," he added.

Radio Questions, Answers

Q—Can you tell me what has become of Bradley Kincaid, the Kentucky Mountain boy?

MOUNTAIN MUSIC.

Q—Where does one address letters to Lanny Ross?

G. N. L., of Framingham.

A—Send them to Radio City, New York City.

Q—Is it true that General Pershing declined to take part in a dramatization of World War happenings?

Veteran, of Lynn.

A—The story is that the general stated he did not feel his health would permit him attempting a strenuous radio routine.

Q—Do you think the Easy Aces' team would set aside bridge and possibly devote a few times to pinochle on the air if we wrote and asked them?

Card Players, of Brookline.

Q—Is Ted Boston announcer who has seen the most number of years service on the air? Is Linus Travers? Good Listener, of Leominster.

A—No indeed. Carlton Dickerman of WEEI, also Arthur Eddy of WEEI and John McNamara of WBZ-WBZA have done "miles" duty for a longer period, although the latter two are program directors now at their respective stations. Travers is likewise engaged in an executive capacity at the Yankee Network studios and is only active on the air in connection with special occasions.

Q—Is the "Town Crier" Alexander Woolcott married? Wondering, of Weymouth

EDITOR'S NOTE: Very often readers will find the answer to their questions given in the answer to the query of another reader. Send yours to the Radio Editor and watch this space for the information you seek.

BLACK Chamber Bits ON AIR

FIRST EPISODE DUE TONIGHT

By N. F. T.

Romance, mystery, adventure and humor, four theme ingredients for which writers and broadcasters strive in the exertion of every effort, have been promised when "Stories of the Black Chamber" episodes get going by radio. Meaning tonight (WEEI) at 7.15, the new program premiers.

Thrilling experiences of Major Herbert O. Yardley, coupled with newspaper achievements to the credit of Tom Curtin, will provide the material for the initial of the unique series of dramatizations. As will be remembered, the famous Black Chamber was founded and augmented by Major Yardley and was in existence during the World War at Washington, D. C.

N. F. T.

Condemnages, biographies of countless people in public life, friends and enemies were on record there. Messages of every description were deciphered and secret enemy communications brought to light, all as a means of tracing and apprehending alien spies.

SHOULD PROVE SPLENDID

Since the Black Chamber closing in 1929, Major Yardley has written for the press, leading magazine issues and the movies. Now comes the re-enactment by radio of his eventful career, which publication should prove popular and educational, not forgetting the entertainment value it is undeniably due to develop among coast to coast listeners.

DARK DEPTHS

African jungle background serves as the "Princess" Pat Players' airing tonight (WBZ) when 9 30 rolls around, the three-act bearing the label "Penalty" and dealing with all-powerful love that led two people around the world.

* * *

More audition winners accompany Kate Smith to the microphone this evening (WNAC) at 9 o'clock. This time two top-notchers from Philadelphia fill the bill for the hour-long broadcast. Katherina. They are Gabriella Hunt, a Quaker town soprano and a quartet known as the "Pennsylvanians," a barbershop outfit hailing from Reading, Pa.

LOCAL LATHER

Interesting is the interview (WEEI) slated today at 12 45 and here's hoping great numbers of dialers catch an earful. Ed (Uncle Bob) Young, is the quizzer of Captain Phiffer, now in our midst with some of the animals shown in that remarkable film "Sequoia" now showing on the Loew's State screen

Ranny Weeks scored sharply (WEEI) again last night with his recently assembled air orchestra.

MAYOR MANSFIELD WNAC 8:30 TONIGHT REVIEW OF 1934 MUNICIPAL ACCOMPLISHMENTS

SPURT IN Steel ACTIVITY Cheers

By HUGH E. BRADSHAW

Most significant development of 1935 is the spurt in steel activity. Principle contributors are motor makers, tin plate manufacturers and farm implement producers.

Greatest lack of the steel industry is the paucity of orders for structural and rail purposes. Railroad tonnage is particularly discouraging and offers additional proof that net earnings govern purchases. Structural steel orders may be expected when the housing squabble clears up. Government plans are not developing with the speed some expected. Due in good part, no doubt, to recurrent rumors that Commissioner Moffett is considering resigning.

Excellent report for the last half of 1934 by First of Boston Corporation shows that money can be made under the Security Act. A net profit of $1.51 per share is shown. Statement of President Allan M. Pope that the company enters a new year with confidence begets more than hope in the hearts of other and smaller investment and brokerage enterprises. The deflation from the dear, mad days of 1929 has tested the most rugged constitutions and caused plenty of grief to the brokerage fraternity. It seems nearly over and the present is no time to lose heart. The First of Boston reports shows that an organization geared to present requirements can make money.

Notebook: Steel makers generally are said to be making money at present activity levels . . . Big question is whether prices of steel equities did discount this in advance . . . Incidentally it is not always the headline stocks of any given industry that are the most profitable for term holding . . . Republic Steel preferred, for instance, is doing comparatively better on the tape than some of its more famous competitors . . . A few decent sized rail orders would put the steel industry in the front rank of prosperity.

This is a critical week for the stock market. Traders and investors should shortly know whether a technical snapback after the gold clause selling is to be witnessed or if the list has enough friends to put it back on the upward path. The rails are the weak spot and have proven rather decisively that the market can only go along so far without them. Hesitation about one-half to two-thirds of the way back would be frightening to bulls. They would see a simple technical recovery and resign hopes.

Shorts: Lumber matches steel for good news . . . With few exceptions reporting districts showed lumber orders at the best levels since May, 1934 . . . Rail expenditures while disappointing as we have noted above are not so bad that optimists should go into immediate decline . . . Percentagewise they are only 10 per cent under 1931 . . . The point is that the 10 per cent is really needed to give steel a real fillip . . . Aircraft shares manage to maintain a buoyant tone.

Holders of high grade bonds are following a sort of down the scale switching procedure. They group all liens in a certain class under one heading and then call out those of a lower price offering the same security as the ones held and make an exchange. This provides an opportunity to take profits which go to write down the cost of bonds purchased and sweeten the actual yield to them. It is not a process to be followed blindly and the best of counsel should be sought.

Annual Meeting

The Norwich Pharmacal Co.'s business showed such an increase in 1934 that payment of dividends of $6 a share on the corporation's stock was authorized at the annual meeting.

In 1934 the company paid four regular quarterly dividends of $1.25 and an extra of $1.

Stock Market Time Table

10-11—Extreme dullness prevailed in the initial hour. Farm equipment group recorded small gains. Rails were quiet. Miners were easy. Sales approximated 170,000 shares.

11-12—Rail equipments moved higher in the second hour. Activity increased. Metals were firm. Transactions amounted to 320,000 shares.

12-1—Light profit taking in rails and farm equipment was noted in third hour dealings. List moved in a narrow range and trading was sluggish. Sales amounted to 460,000 shares.

1-2—Stocks drifted listlessly in the fourth hour. Price changes were limited to minor fractions. Sales were 510,000 shares.

International Shoe Co.

In spite of the fact that International Shoe Co.'s sales in the year ended Nov. 30, 1934, expanded to $77,168,682 from $70,343,129 in the 1933 year, net profits at $8,967,024 were slightly below those of the previous year when they were $9,090,566. Due to complete retirement of preferred stock at the end of 1933, however, the balance earned for the common stock was larger, or $2.67 a share against $2.58. The company continued to maintain a remarkably strong financial position, with a ratio of current assets to current liabilities of 7½ to 1, and working capital of $21,757,437.

Brown Shoe Co.

Brown Shoe Co., which concludes its fiscal year a month earlier, or on October 31, reported sales of $26,831,966 against $23,887,705 in 1933. Net profits fell off somewhat, however, being $1,138,581 against $1,436,844 in the year ended October 31, 1933. Balance for the common stock was equal to 3.71 a share against $4.89 a year earlier. Net working capital was $12,273,842, with a "current" ratio of 16 to 1.

MARKET STEADY At Close of Listless Session

New York, Jan. 21—The stock market developed renewed strength in the last hour today under General Electric leadership which brought renewed buying into the steels, equipments and farm machinery shares. Mining shares, however, ruled just slightly above the previous close.

Bethlehem preferred rose more than 3 points while U. S. Steel senior stock gained more than 2. The normally inactive Otis Steel prior preferred was up 11½ points at one time.

Gains in farm shares ran to more than a point in International Harvester. Oils were aided by better earnings last year.

Heavy buying of National Distillers lifted the liquor group. Motors were sluggish all day, while rails were held down bgy a dip in traffic last week. Grains were outstanding in commodities, with a drop of nearly two cents a bushel.

Rail Demand

The market heard a note of caution sounded in the suggestions of the magazine, "Steel," that activity in the steel industry may be nearing a peak. The publication pointed out that since the first of the year, ingots have been turned out at a rate of 25 per cent higher than the average for 1934.

The opinion of the review was that unless the steel trade is shortly braced up by additional demand from the railroads and structural companies, the rate would tend to slacken in spite of the brisk demand from automobile makers and light consumers.

On the other hand, banking circles took some encouragement from the report that the Ford Motor Company had stepped up its February output schedule to 130,000 units. The feeling was that inasmuch as this schedule is 20,000 more than the original estimates made 10 days ago, the sustained consumer demand for automobiles would help pave the way for a firm basis for general spring trade.

The statement of Ralph T. Crane, president of the Investment Bankers' Association, that modification of S. E. C. registration requirements would bring considerable expansion of the new capital market was well received, although one faction of the Street holds that the liability attached to new financing is still a sharp deterrent to new issues. In these quarters opinion is that the flow of fresh capital may not come up to the expectations of some of the more hopeful prophets.

Lineage Gains

New York, Jan. 21 (INS)—American daily newspapers had advertising lineage gains of 10.6 per cent in 1934 over the year before and 1.2 per cent over 1932, Editor and Publisher reported, with advertisers spending $490,000,000 for newspaper space last year. The total, however, was 37.9 per cent under the 1929 peak year.

AVERAGES Higher AT CLOSE OF Week

By LEWIS HANEY
Professor of Economics New York University

New York, Jan. 21—Stock market averages last week closed fractionally higher than at the beginning and this also was true of bonds. The market sold off on Tuesday, but rose each day thereafter.

By the performances of the last two weeks, the market almost exactly cancelled the upward move which began Dec. 28. That move was made in two one-day jumps, on Friday, Dec. 28, and Tuesday, Jan. 2. It was washed out in two one-day declines, on Friday, Jan. 11, and Tuesday, Jan. 15 (the similiarity of days and intervals is interesting.)

The whole performance has seemed artificial and insignificant—"jiggle." There was no volume to speak of, either on its rise or on the decline. Above all, there has been no volume at all on the recent upturn.

It is just a very "thin" and nervous market, made jittery by the monetary situation and threatened limitation of profits. A mid-January dip is quite usual.

Chart formations suggest a "secondary" reaction soon. Even this is uncertain, however, since there has been little indication of the usual "accumulation," "distribution" and "liquidation" during the move. All one can say is that a little weakness in the next few days would be natural, but developments at Washington may swing the market either way.

Probably the wisest course for the average man is, for the moment, to hang on to his money and the best foreign gold mine stocks.

The outstanding performers last week were electrical appliance stocks, steel, motors and rails—the two latter groups being disappointing.

The big question before us is, will the force of inflation be able to overcome the weight of socialistic "reforms" and the burden of taxation?

JAILED BY NAZIS

GIRL REACHES U.S.

New York, Jan. 21—Else Sittel, who spent ten days in a German jail for making indiscreet remarks about Chancellor Hitler, returned in the President Roosevelt with the statement she had no wish to revisit the Reich.

While reluctant to discuss her incarceration, the girl, a former stenographer in a New York law firm, replied with an emphatic "no" when asked if she ever would rejoin her parents in Germany.

Describing herself as like the "man without a country," she refused even to concede that she had relatives in Germany, saying she did not want "my family or anyone else involved."

Miss Sittel denied she had received instructions either from the German government or from American diplomatic representatives aboard to keep quiet about

NAZIS Out to Win DANZIG

PROPAGANDA STARTED

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND
Copyright, 1935, by Universal Service

Flushed by the victory in the Saar and lured by Hitler's statement, "Germany's future lies in the East," other territorial problems are rapidly coming to the surface.

The Nazi propaganda guns, so successful in the Saar, are being turned on Danzig and Memel, which, it is hoped, will be under Hitler's Swastika banner next fall.

Sean Lester, the League of Nations Irish Governor of Danzig, has voiced at Geneva "serious apprehension of Nazi activities in Danzig."

Some high Polish circles already have "written off" Danzig to Germany. It is understood Lithuania's federation with Poland is suggested as compensation.

Both Danzig and Memel, as German as the Saar, were torn from the flank of Germany by the Versailles treaty.

Germans have a deep sentimental interest in tiny Memel, a strip on the northern border of Prussia with 150,000 inhabitants.

The demand is voiced that a new plebiscite be held in Schleswig, territory ceded to Denmark in 1920.

U. S. APOLOGY on "I'm Alone"

Washington, Jan. 21 (AP)—Regret that the Coast Guard cutter Dexter sank the famous rum runner "I'm Alone" while it was flying the Canadian flag was expressed by the United States today in a formal apology to the Canadian government.

Secretary Hull, in a formal note delivered to William Duncan Herridge, Canadian minister, said that, while the joint American-Canadian commission had found "that the mission and use of the vessel at the time of sinking wee unlawful, nevertheless they also find that its sinking by the United States officers was unlawful."

K. OF C. FILES Protest on Mexico

Washington, Jan. 21 (AP)—Formal demands that the United States sever diplomatic relations with Mexico unless alleged religious persecutions there are ended were made to Secretary Hull today by a national committee representing the Knights of Columbus.

The resolutions presented to Hull asserted the Mexican government had denied the right of assembly and of freedom of the press, had closed schools and seminaries, confiscated private property, denied the right of trial by jury, and summarily executed citizens.

TWO SLAIN in $3000 Holdup

Washington, Jan. 21 (INS)—Bandits raided the Chevy Chase (Md.) carbarn in the exclusive Chevy Chase residential section early today, shot and killed two employes and escaped with approximately $3000.

While they left one of the workers, James M. Mitchell, lying dead in his office, they dragged his companion, Emory Smith, the night manager, along with them.

Smith's body was thrown into a creek at Kensington, Md., just beyond the district's line.

TEN NAZIS Ousted in Saar

Saarbruecken, Saar Basin territory, Jan. 21 (AP)—Ten Nazis were ousted from the German front today in a campaign to purge the party ranks of troublemakers in the Saar Basin.

The disciplinary action coincided with the first smashing of an anti-Nazi store window in Saarbruecken. The window was used by dissident Catholics to display anti-Hitler religious books and leaflets.

Ship in Distress

San Francisco, Jan. 21 (AP)—Globe Wireless reported intercepting a distress call from the Japanese freighter, Hokuan Maru, bound from Vancouver to Osaka, Japan, today, saying it has a "starboard list of 17 degrees" and "was taking water."

Lowell Speaks

New Haven, Ct., Jan. 21 (INS)—Dr. A. Lawrence Lowell, president emeritus of Harvard University, will speak on "The Spirit of Distrust" at Sprague Memorial Hall, Yale University, this Thursday evening.

Static Comes From Milky Way

New Jersey Scientist Locates Causes of Interference to Radio in Sky

By HIRAM PERCY MAXIM

An inquisitive scientist of Holmdel, N. J., erected a special radio antenna, three years ago, and set about analyzing those irritating manifestations which radio listeners know as "static."

His first efforts were directed at making his antenna especially sensitive and directive.

He sought not only all the different forms of static, even the very faint, but also the direction from which each came.

Working in his little laboratory, sweeping the heavens with his curious array of wires, he gradually became familiar with the "static language." He acquired the ability to recognize the various "static dialects."

Hissing Sounds

Among the more familiar is one which sounds like bacon frying the crackling kind which strikes suddenly and tapers off; the clicking kind, which clicks more or less steadily, and the hissing variety. Each has a different wave length.

Long waves bring in one assortment, and the short waves another. To make comparisons, this inquisitive gentleman used a dictaphone inviting each form of static to record its language on a wax cylinder.

As his familiarity with the different sounds increased, and as he came to know the wave lengths on which they traveled, and also the direction in which each was strongest, he became conscious of a certain sound in the hiss group.

Moves Daily

It seemed to thrust itself upon him more than the others, drawing his close attention. The soft hiss was always strongest when his antenna was pointed in a certain direction. Further, it was carried on a wave of 14.6 meters, which is 20,600 kilocycles.

After "sleuthing" the sound a few weeks, he discovered that the direction on which it was strongest shifted daily. As the weeks went on, he noticed that this shift was consistent. At first he attributed this to the sun's changing position each day.

But, as the months passed, he discovered that the direction gained upon the sun. Looking back over his records, he saw that this gain had been uniform from the beginning, and that it amounted to four minutes a day.

Very Far Away

In a flash it came over him that this corresponded in a year to one complete rotation, which is the same as the fixed stars.

It now was evident that the strange sound was coming from a point in space outside our solar system, and therefore from somewhere very far away indeed. So far must it be, that, like the fixed stars, its relative position in the firmament does not change.

The exact direction from which these curious waves came, in astronomical terms, is right ascension 18 hours, declination south 20 degrees.

Dr. Harlow Shapley of Harvard University has estimated the location of the center of our Milky Way galaxy, which is the star system to which our sun belongs. The Holmdel scientists took this location and found that it coincided with the direction from which his sound came.

Our scientist in Holmdel can point to nothing of immediate and concrete value as a result of three years' observation.

Yet the one fact that the hiss appeared to come from the place which Shapley says is the center of the Milky Way galaxy may ultimately prove to be one of the great discoveries of the century.

STERN HOLDING LAW DRAFTED

By JOHN T. LAMBERT

Washington, Jan. 21—The Roosevelt administration was proceeding with definite plans today to "tie the hands" of directors and other inside officials of holding corporations who are alleged to have made vast personal fortunes by their manipulation of electric and gas companies throughout the country.

The plans are being converged in a drastic "holding company law" now being drafted by Congressman Sam Rayburn of Texas after consultation with President Roosevelt, the Federal Trade Commission, the Federal Power Commission and some of the enthusiastic New Dealers.

The program has three positive aims:

To prohibit, by national law, the issuance of holding corporation stock of no-par value.

To prohibit the directors and officers of holding corporations from making contracts for the purchase of equipment and supplies for the electric and gas companies they control.

To abolish or restrict the "management companies" which the holding corporations have established to collect enormous fees for the service they claim to render to the electric and gas companies.

The above are among the "numerous evils and abuses of the holding corporations" which have been denounced by the Federal Trade Commission in the reports it has submitted to Congress in consequence of its five-years' probe into the power trust.

The commission kept up its incessant bombardment in another report sent to Congress today.

CHRYSLER FAY'S APPROVED VALUE

Once again we offer for your approval a choice selection of highest quality used cars. They are of the same stock that has met with such popular acceptance during the past year. Glowing adjectives and oral praises can not adequately describe them. We ask you to see and drive any car included in the list—we are supremely confident that on actual demonstration they will win your favor beyond any doubt. See this stock—whatever your ideal may be of automotive performance, you can find it here at a price that makes it a genuine value.

GENERAL GEORGE WASHINGTON TO C. C. PINCKNEY

JULY 8, 1796.

"It is a fact too notorious to be denied, that the greatest embarrassments under which the administration of this Government labors, proceed from the counteraction of people among ourselves, who are more disposed to promote the views of another nation than to establish national character of their own."

Tax Menace Should Be Stopped NOW in Bay State

THE happiness and security of the people are being taxed out of existence in Massachusetts.

That applies to ALL the people, not only to property owners.

But not all the people realize it.

If all the people can be MADE to realize it, all the people will organize to save for themselves at least a little of the happiness and a little of the security to which they are entitled.

ALL the people WILL realize it if they read the report of State Commissioner of Taxation Long to the Massachusetts Federation of Taxpayers Associations. Mr. Long reports:

That ONE-THIRD of all the real estate in Massachusetts has been foreclosed for taxes.

That real estate is the SOLE SECURITY for 64 cents of every dollar in savings bank accounts in the state.

That there are 2,803,000 savings bank accounts.

And already the state government is committed to a program calling for expenditure of $1,000,000 a day of taxpayers' money.

We are rapidly approaching a condition under which NONE of the people will have ANY happiness or ANY security.

EVERYTHING worth while in life is endangered by an orgy of taxation that is the result of a bad state government, unnecessary in many of its branches, expensive and wasteful in its operation, overflowing with soft-job curbstone statesmen who cannot find any better way of justifying their tax-paid salaries than by devising new ways and means of spending more and more of other people's money.

IT'S TIME TO STOP IT.

It's time to cut the cost of government and reduce taxation.

A few people cannot do it.

But ALL the people CAN DO IT and do it almost overnight if all the people are organized to demand it.

The Massachusetts Federation of Taxpayers' Associations has 137 municipal units.

More are being organized. There should be one in every city and town.

This organization is non-political. Its officers are unpaid.

Its sole objective is to reduce the cost of government without impairing essential governmental functions.

It is an organization which every man and woman in the state, whether property owners or not, should join at once for the preservation of whatever happiness and whatever security they have managed to retain against the cruel raids of what Calvin Coolidge called LEGALIZED LARCENY.

Help for Our Courts

Modern Methods Needed

The report of the Committee on Judicial Procedure of the Boston Chamber of Commerce is a straight thinking plea for intelligent self-government.

It is a hard-hitting document that strikes directly at the palpable weakness in current judicial procedure of Massachusetts courts.

Summed up, this is the strangulation of courts through adherence to antiquated methods that have been stubbornly held since the early days of the State.

In some counties a delay of four years is required before a hearing may be obtained before the Superior Court. While estimates place the number of unmerited cases before the Supreme Court as high as fifty per cent.

Speed and the threat of expense for the unreasonable litigant are the great needs of the moment.

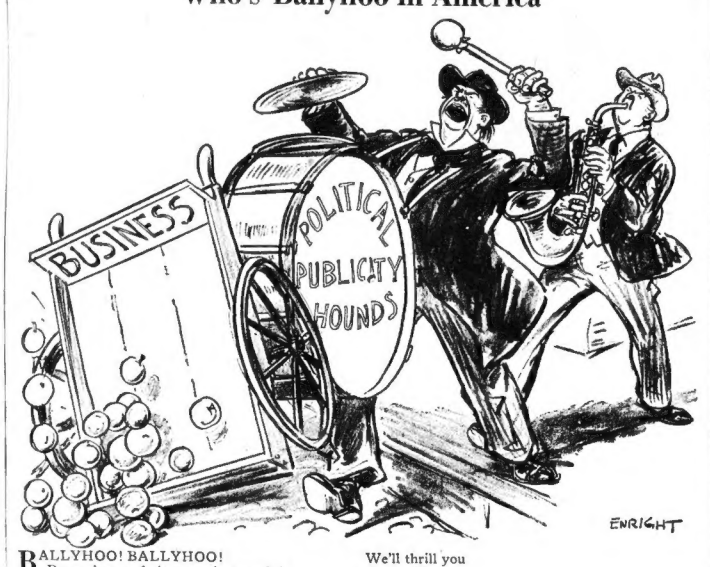
The first may be obtained through elimination of red tape and the clothing of judges with real authority. Court rules of procedure should be the right of justices, just as in the Federal Courts.

Unreasonable and petty cases could be effectively blocked by a stiff fee for a jury trial with an increase in present entry fees. Then such cases would seek their proper sphere in the Small Claims Courts.

It is time for the Massachusetts General Court to effect a change.

Let the schemes for spending more of the taxpayers' money rest awhile, and provide a sound, capable process of law that the principles of intelligent self-government may be vindicated.

Who's Ballyhoo in America



BALLYHOO! BALLYHOO!
Draw close and observe what we do!
We're saving the country, we're forging ahead
With plans that'll get us—a four-column spread!
And if we knock business completely askew
What of it? We're getting
A swell Ballyhoo!
Ballyhoo! Ballyhoo!
Each day we spring something that's new!
New rules and new taxes, new codes and new laws
Which slow down the motor, but speed up applause,
Step up, gents and ladies! And get a good view!

We'll thrill you
And spill you
A grand Ballyhoo!
Ballyhoo! Ballyhoo!
Here's front page excitement for you!
We may be disturbing the peace with our capers,
But—look at the space that we get in the papers!
Just where we are going
We haven't a clue,
But—whoops—we are throwing
A swell Ballyhoo!

—Berton Braley

Listen, World

By Elsie Robinson

THE POWER OF GENTLENESS

As I write this, Anne Morrow Lindbergh sits in the court at Flemington, New Jersey, suffering the most cruel ordeal any mother can know.

Elsie Robinson

Before her sit two men. One is the man she loves so deeply, his youth married, as was hers, by a hideous blow.

The other is the man whom she must loathe with all the energy of her intense nature—the man who the world believes dealt that blow. And in her trembling hands lies all that is left of the baby who was her heart's delight.

Love and loathing and racking grief, how they must war within her slender body, snarl and sob in her sensitive mind! Yet, to a pitying, watching world, there comes but one word describing her—

Gentle.

Gentle—in the most dreadful test of her life. No one would blame her if she were otherwise. If she should rise and shout Bruno Hauptmann dead no one would be at a loss to understand it.

There is, indeed, no violence which would not be forgiven her, understood, even applauded. Yet she is gentle—and in all our history, never has there been a finer sight than this!

We are not a very subtle people we Americans, nor in some ways very wise. We still mistake bluster for strength and pay secret homage to the bullying brutality which expresses its "courage" with a machine gun.

All very well to purse our lips piously at mention of such gentry—but watch us flock to the films, or snatch at the extras which describe their reverberating rowdiness.

Bad Eggs? Sure! Nevertheless we continue to gaze upon them with the adoring awe with which little Johnny surveys the corner cop. And the reason is, at root, a healthy one. They have come to be our symbol of strength.

For Youth must have its adventures, its heroes. And where shall it find them in our synthetic civilization?

Now, as if in answer to that need, she comes—this frail Anne Lindbergh, with that gentleness which is the real strength—that quiet valor which requires no noisy ballyhoo for its support.

There she sits, mortally hurt and yet triumphant, holding in leash both the horror without and the heartbreak within.

Here is the greatest exhibition of spiritual fortitude which America has seen in decades.

This is not only a gallant lady—but a shining reminder of all that is finest in our dream of life.

God go with you, little Anne Lindbergh. You have done a great thing for your country today.

Words of Wise

WRITES ABOUT

Italy and Abyssinia

There is a fantastic story going the rounds about the reason why Italy is now apparently preparing for a war with Abyssinia.

This is the year 1935. You can not just go ahead and attack a supposedly barbarous neighbor by telling the world that you are doing it for the sake of civilization or to spread the principles of true Christianity.

Today you have to think of something else. And since this is the era when economic considerations rule the world, the best excuse is one that has a practical background of dollars and cents.

For example, you can claim that the Emperor of Senegambia has a lot of highly profitable oil wells within his domains who is be neglects to exploit, thereby depriving mankind of a further supply of cheap gasoline.

Or you can draw attention to the lamentable way in which the ruling sheik of lower Arabia has allowed the harbors of his landlocked country to fall into utter neglect.

And so, therefore, as soon as Signor Mussolini decided to expand the Italian possessions in Eastern Africa, it was discovered that the territories of the Negus of Abyssinia were rapidly falling into the hands of the Japanese, that the Japanese intended to marry him or his son (if any) to a princess of the Imperial Nipponese family, and that soon the whole of Abyssinia would be flying the Rising Sun of the Great Empire of Eastern Asia.

As few people ever take the trouble to interest themselves more than superficially in those problems that do not in any way seem to affect their own lives, the clever publicists of most foreign powers have long since discovered that in the matter of foreign propaganda "anything goes."

The Italian-Abyssinian quarrel will be no exception to this rule.

Western man discovered Japan in the year 1542 when a Portuguese ship bound for Macao in China was blown out of its way and reached the coast of Japan.

In 1549 the first Christian missionary landed. He was received with polite hospitality, and during the next forty years there was a steady influx of missionaries who settled down in different parts of the Empire.

The Japanese finally threw all of them out, lock, stock and barrel and closed their frontiers against the outside world.

At the same time the Mikado forbade his subjects to go abroad, as a result of which Japan for about two centuries lived far removed from the rest of the world, an efficient empire, sufficient unto itself.

But the rest of the world, for reasons of its own, resented this isolation of so rich a nation. In 1853, the guns of Commodore Perry forced the Shogun (whom Perry mistook for the real Emperor and whom he addressed as the "Tycoon," which was really the Emperor's title) to sign the famous treaty of March 21, 1854, by which Japan, much against her will, was put under the necessity of westernizing her entire mode of living and also her methods of making a living.

It was an evil day for Europe and America.

That happened ninety years ago, and ever since we have loudly complained because the pupil is beating us most merrily at our game.

But who my friends, has taught him?

Well, we did. We did ourselves. Do you wonder then that the Japanese sometimes smile politely when they read in our history books of the great things that happened in 1853? If I were in their position, I would roar with laughter.

For there is a joke somewhere in that story, and the joke is on us!

League Court Propaganda Buncoes People of U. S.

By JAMES T. WILLIAMS, JR.

One of the wisest and best known admonitions attributed to Abraham Lincoln reads as follows:

"You can fool some of the people all of the time, and all of the people some of the time, but you can not fool all of the people all of the time."

In the face of Lincoln's warning League Court propagandists in and out of the Senate are again trying to fool the American people about the real meaning of the protocols now pending before the Senate which provide for the entrance of the United States into the League Court.

J. Reuben Clark

These propagandists pretend that the Court is neither a part nor an instrumentality of the League.

PRETENSE

This is a false pretense because the Court was established by the League, is elected by the League, is paid by the League, is used by the League for sundry purposes and has been described by the officials of the League as "the judicial organization of the League" and as "the most essential part" of the organization of the League.

The pending protocols contain some of the Senate's original conditions in the form they were adopted others in an emasculated form, while two of the most vital of these original conditons are omitted altogether.

By way of illustration of the downright mendacity of the pretense that all of the Senate's reservations of five years ago, all the conditions and understandings on which it based its conditional consent to enter the League Court "are fully met in the pending protocols."

The second condition and understanding on which the Senate gave its conditional consent five years ago to enter the League Court reads as follows:

"Resolved, Further, That adherence to the said protocol and statute hereby approved shall not be so construed as to require the United States to depart from its traditional policy of not intruding upon, in interfering with, or entangling itself in the political questions of policy or internal administration of any foreign state; nor shall adherence to the said protocol and statute be construed to imply a relinquishment by the United States of its traditional attitude toward purely American questions."

Read what the Honorable J. Reuben Clark, eminent American jurist and diplomatist, the worthy successor of the late Dwight Morrow as Ambassador to Mexico, a former solicitor of the Department of State and a former Under Secretary of State, says about the complete omission of this vital condition from the pending protocols:

"There is nothing anywhere in any of the court documents before the Senate for approval which either embodies, mentions or remotely refers to this understanding, and yet the matters covered by it are part and parcel of our national existence.

"No entangling alliances, the Monroe Doctrine, were conceived in a deep and wise understanding of our national needs. Surely the Senate is not yet prepared to abandon them."

A whispering campaign is now going on in the Senate, the object of which is to discourage senators from speaking against the League Court, "even if your conscience compels you to vote against it," as the whispering propagandists put it.

Speeches which expose the false pretenses under which ratification of the ratifications of the pending protocols is requested would arouse the American people to the deception which is now being practised upon them by league propagandists who pretend that the League Court is not a part of the league and that the Senate's original conditions to entrance into the court are fully met by the pending protocols.

Human Side of the News

The Nicaragua Canal

By Edwin C. Hill

THE GLOBE TROTTER OF HEARST METROTONE NEWS

One quick and definite American reaction to Japan's denunciation of the naval limitation treaty is a Congressional move to start dirt flying in the Nicaragua Canal.

Edwin C. Hill

Uncle Sam already has a treaty with Nicaragua which allows him to go ahead whenever he feels like it. He has the land and the completed survey.

He has a vast reservoir of credit straining at the headgates to rip loose and gouge out this second great channel between the ocean.

VINSON TO ACT

Representative Carl Vinson, chairman of the House naval affairs committee, will offer the resolution to start the dredges and steam shovels down in Jungleland. For nearly 40 years this canal route has been championed by informed engineers. Only by a toss-up did Panama win in the Congressional decision which picked that route against that of Nicaragua.

A survey made in 1899 to 1901 estimated the cost of $180,000,000. In later years, with rising costs of labor and material, this cost was put at nearly $1,000,000,000

But surely the amazing advances in engineering processes, in the speed and workload of heavy-duty machinery, will have made possible a great reduction in this estimate. If not, what is technical advance good for?

Japan's action was climaxed by stirring powerful forces at Washington. But previously, particularly during the last year, there was insistence by laymen, engineers and military experts that the Panama Canal was highly vulnerable to attack.

That even strong land and naval defenses would not save it from attack by air. Its eight exposed locks would be shining marks for hostile planes, these observers warned, and while some experts opposed them, clearly unanswerable was the contention that safety and mobility of the country's naval forces in time of war demanded still another highway between the seas.

GREAT ADVANTAGE

The area of this lake as contrasted with Gatun lake of the Panama Canal is 2975 square miles as against 165 miles for the latter. Starting at Brito, near the entrance to the lake, the canal would cross the lake and follow the San Juan river to its outlet at San Juan Del Norte. This would make the canal 113 miles.

While the Panama Canal is only fifty miles, the longer route is offset by the easy traverse over the lake.

While hydraulic problems make necessary a width of five hundred feet for the Panama Canal, Nicaragua will be a strip only 150 feet wide.

Over in Paris lives Bunau-Varilla, grown old now, who was the indefatigable champion of the Panama route as against the Nicaragua route. It was he who raised the incessant cry of the danger to the volcanic eruptions in Nicaragua.

This was answered by engineers and scientists and when Congress was ready to vote on the route it seemed almost certain that Nicaragua would be chosen. But on the day before the vote there was an eruption of a volcano in Nicaragua. Someone placed on each congressman's desk a newspaper story of the disaster. It turned the tide. Panama was chosen.

But perhaps it was just as well as long as it now appears that we will get both canals. A rather startling thought is that New York City spends for relief in four months an amount equal to the first cost estimate of the Nicaragua canal.
